

BORAH SAYS
BROWN LOOKS FOR RETURN OF SALOON

Tells Senate Postmaster-General Declared That He Would Rather Have That Than the Present Conditions.

Quotes Latter's Statement Several Years Ago That 18th Amendment Is Object of Scorn—Fess Answers Him.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), told the Senate today that Postmaster-General Brown said to him in a private conversation several weeks ago that he expected to see the return of the saloon and would rather have that than present conditions.

Borah's statement came during a debate on Senator Fess (Rep., Mo.) on Brown's views. It was a highlight from the speech made by Borah yesterday in which he said the Postmaster-General was for repeal.

Fess at that time took issue with Borah and today placed in the Congressional Record Brown's reply to Borah, in which the Postmaster-General denied he was for repeal.

Borah confirmed that part of Brown's statement that he (Borah) had said he was working on a plan to give states the right to determine whether they were wet or dry, to protect dry states from wet states and to prevent return of the saloon.

Borah quoted Brown, "I said I had made progress with reference to protecting dry states from wet states, but had declined the constitution that once we legalize liquor, there was no practical way to prevent return of the saloon." Borah told the Senate, "Brown replied: 'I think you are right. Once you legalize the sale, I don't know how you are going to prevent the return of the saloon and I would rather have it than present conditions.'"

He read the entire statement of Brown and said he had known of the position of the Postmaster-General quite well.

"He has always argued that repeal would mean chaos unless there was some other legislation," Fess said.

The Ohio Senator also placed in the record the reply of Secretary Mills to Borah's assertion that he was for repeal.

Borah said that Borah said it was possible that he had been misled by reason of "misinterpreting the English language."

Borah read a statement he said had been made by Mills several years ago in which he was quoted as saying "the eighteenth amendment is the object of scorn and contempt."

"Naturally I assumed that one who had that view would not feel like repealing it in the Constitution," Borah added.

He said Mills declared the question was "a festering sore on the body politic."

His attitude was certainly not of "attention," Borah commented. "From those statements I drew the conclusion that he was opposed to the eighteenth amendment."

Borah stated that the next day after his conversation with Brown, in which E. A. Van Valkenburg of Kansas participated, the latter came to his office and said: "Senator, Mr. Brown's scheme means return of the American saloon and I cannot go along with it."

The conclusion all of us drew," Borah added, "was that the sale of liquor was permitted by the saloon would come back."

I came away from there and Mr. Van Valkenburg came away saying that if liquor was permitted, that would mean the return of the saloon to American life."

Later Senator Borah made public the text of the prohibition amendment which he unsuccessfully tried to pass upon Republican leaders. It was a law enforcement until the amendment was passed. The Republican party had pledged "law enforcement" until the amendment was passed. The Republican party had pledged "law enforcement" until the amendment was passed.

"Large Gains of Fraudulent, Secret Nature" Alleged by Theater Corporation He Once Headed.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, N. Y. June 21.—Suits for recovery of more than $5,000,000 were filed in Nassau County Supreme Court today against William Fox and six others. The action was started by Henry A. Uterhart, attorney, on behalf of the Fox Theater Corporation, of which Fox was the president until 1930.

The suit alleges that Fox and the others, alleged relatives and friends, obtained large gains "of fraudulent and secret nature" during the period that Fox was in control of the corporation.

The other defendants are Jack Leo, Eva Fox, John Zant, Jacob F. Rubenstein, Bessie Livingston and Caroline Lea Tauszig. The latter is Fox's daughter.

It is alleged that in November, 1925, Fox sold 500,000 shares of Class A stock for $25 a share and made secret arrangement with a brokerage house by which he received a share of the commission amounting to $375,000. In another instance, the suit charges, he sold $5,000 shares short after obtaining an option to buy that many at a lower price.

Senate's Market Inquiry Gets Authority to Continue.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Senate today authorized continuation until next March 4 of its Banking Committee's stock market investigation.

Chairman Norbeck of the Banking Committee said the group did not plan to hold hearings during the summer, but wanted to keep its investigators busy. Hearings will be resumed in December.

Norbeck told the Senate that committee members felt their work so far "has only touched the borders" and that President Whitney of the New York Stock Exchange "has admitted 25,000,000 people were caught in the fall of 1929 and lost $50,000,000,000."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago told the House Banking Committee today that, unless Federal relief is forthcoming, "I am unable to say what will happen in Chicago after Aug. 1."

Cermak appeared in behalf of an amendment to the $300,000,000 Wagner relief bill which would permit loans to municipalities for meeting their expenses.

He was accompanied by a group of Chicago officials and virtually the entire Illinois congressional delegation, including Senator Lew.

Just before he began to testify, Representative Britten (Rep., Ill.), said: "Unless you gentlemen provide for relief of the city of Chicago, within the next six months you will be sending Federal troops to Chicago."

Chicago Tax Assessments.

Cermak discussed the court contest over Chicago tax assessments, explaining that, pending a final decision, possibly from the United States Supreme Court, it was impossible to collect sufficient funds to run the city government.

"We ask you to amend these relief bills so that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may loan money to municipalities having the service on the debts due the United States."

Herriot said the French people already had made considerable sacrifices in behalf of world peace and that the present Government was not in a position to support the American disarmament project.

Gibson said he did not oppose the French suggestion for a small global cut in the arms budgets but that he did not consider that this would be adequate as the result of the present disarmament conference.

Three-Power Conversations.

The private conversations of the Americans, British and French were resumed here at 11 a. m. today.

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, after a general conference on disarmament last Sunday night, stopped at the Gibson home on the way back to Lausanne and discussed arms and debts until nearly midnight.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Russian foreign commissar, arrived yesterday and today was awaiting an invitation to join the three-power party.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Secretary of State Stimson issued this statement today:

"There is no truth whatever in the statements from Lausanne that the American Government or its representatives have had any negotiations or made any suggestions as to debt questions at Lausanne or Geneva."

"Not only have no discussions on this subject taken place between our Government and our representatives, but they inform us that no such discussion has ever taken place between them and the representatives of any foreign government."

"The American representatives at the Geneva conference are dealing with the question of disarmament."

TAX RECEIPTS CUT BY HALF

Report Made on Second-Quarter Collections From Incomes.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Income tax receipts last Saturday, the third day for reports of second quarter collections, amounted to $21,423,202.53 or less than half the $47,819,906.75 received on the corresponding date last year. Collections so far this month have amounted to $139,252,783.69 compared with $213,627,884.73 for the corresponding period of last year.

For the fiscal year to date these collections have aggregated $1,035,231,423.95, which compares with collections of $1,778,256,766.21 for the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

IN INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF BOY, 5

Coroner Seeks Chemical Test in Case of Dolan Whitson, Whose Sister Succumbed to Poisoning.

THREE IN FAMILY WERE TAKEN ILL

Norman, 2, Recovered — Parents Surmise Children May Have Eaten Arsenic Put Out for Rats.

Coroner Dever today reopened his inquiry into the deaths a week apart of 5-year-old Dolan Whitson and his 4-year-old sister, Mary.

Mary died of arsenic poisoning on June 7. The coroner ordered Dolan's body exhumed for chemical examination of the viscera.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitson, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that no poison was kept on their premises. Their only surmise is that their children, in playing in the vicinity of the home at 1215 Missouri avenue, may have picked up and eaten poison put out for rats.

Dolan became ill on the night of May 29 and was treated by the family physician. His condition was not thought to be serious until the morning of May 31, when he was attacked with spasms and convulsions. His mother sent him to City Hospital, where he died an hour and a half later. After an autopsy, Dr. Elisha Margolin, hospital pathologist, pronounced the cause of death as bronchial pneumonia and issued a burial certificate.

Several hours after Dolan's funeral, June 2, Mary became ill, as did her 2-year-old brother, Norman, the only other child in the family. Both had attacks of nausea similar to those suffered by Dolan when he first became ill.

The family had just gone to the home of Mrs. Whitson's father, James F. Wyon, 9108 Argyle avenue, Overland. A physician was called the following morning and, upon being informed of the circumstances of Dolan's death, ordered both children to Children's Hospital.

Norman recovered quickly but Mary's condition became steadily worse, with symptoms similar to those of Dolan before he died. During her illness, physicians discovered some lead poisoning in her system. The water at the Missouri avenue residence was examined by Health Department officials, and reported safe. After her death, Dr. Walter J. Siebert, assistant professor of pathology at Washington University medical school, reported that a chemical examination of the viscera showed large quantities of arsenic. The case was turned over to the coroner.

Dr. W. C. G. Kirchner, medical director of the City Hospital, said a chemical examination of Dolan's viscera was not thought necessary at the time of the autopsy as there was no suspicion of an external cause of death and the pneumonia was considered a sufficient cause.

Whitson, a mail handler for the Terminal Railroad Association, is now living at 2116 Argyle avenue, Overland.

Chief Clerk today assigned Detective-Lieutenant Coakley and his squad for investigation of the case.

EXPLOSION WRECKS ENGINE ON B. & O. TRAIN; 2 KILLED

Engineer and Fireman of Capitol Limited Victims; None of Passengers Injured.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 21.—An explosion blew the locomotive off its chassis, wrecking the engine, and killed the engineer and fireman of the Baltimore & Ohio's fast Capitol Limited at Allegheny Park, near here, last night. The dead: O. P. Smith, engineer, of Lodi, O., and H. E. Scott, fireman, of Akron, O.

The explosion tore up several yards of track and rolled the engine over on its side. The 10 cars of the train bumped along for more than 500 yards before they halted. They were not wrecked and none of the passengers was injured.

The coroner's office started an immediate investigation, as did railroad officials.

GAS FROM TANK CAR ESCAPES,
85 PERSONS IN TOWN COLLAPSE

Chlorine Hangs Over Section of Mount Vernon, N. Y., Nine Victims in Hospital.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 21.—Chlorine escaping from a tank car on a siding just over the New York City line was blown over this city today and felled 85 men and women.

Nine persons were taken to Mount Vernon hospital where it was said two of them had been seriously affected in the lungs by the choking and corrosive fumes.

The victims were workers in industrial plants and warehouses on the southern edge of the city. As the gas swept over the city men and women staggered out of factories, buildings coughing and choking.

Because of the heavy atmosphere the gas hung low over houses and its men and women fell to the ground by dozens.

The leaky connection was quickly "frozen," but meanwhile clouds of the gas had spread over the city. Mount Vernon and New York city emergency police squads and gas company crews revived the men and women who lay about on the grass.

RAILWAYS MAY CUT WASTE
BY COMBINING SERVICE

Doubling Up on Some Unprofitable Passenger Routes Said to Be Under Consideration.

NEW YORK, June 21.—There is talk in transportation circles that leading Eastern railroads are to double up on some of their passenger services in order to cut down the heavy cost of operating trains that do not pay their way.

Elimination of unnecessary passenger competition through co-operative action is understood to be under consideration by railroad executives.

The plan, as tentatively outlined, calls for a consolidation of passenger services between leading traffic centers as an adjustment to the current low traffic level. Such a step, in the opinion of railway executives, would meet the Interstate Commerce Commission's sanction in view of its granting approval for installation of joint service between Duluth and the Twin Cities.

Robinson of Arkansas, Dry, Wants Vote on Measure Stripped of Alternative Suggestions — Criticizes G. O. P. Declaration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—John N. Garner, Speaker of the House and a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, today issued a statement urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

In a statement handed to newspaper men, the Speaker said he had voted against the eighteenth amendment, and added: "I have never believed it sound or workable and it should be repealed." (Garner's views on other issues are printed elsewhere in the Post-Dispatch today.)

About the same time it became known that Roosevelt supporters among Senate Democrats were virtually agreed on a platform declaring for submission of an amendment to repeal the eighteenth amendment, but not attempting to pledge the party to repeal.

Senators Go to Chicago.

All discussion of the controversial prohibition plank centered about this idea, as the first of the Senatorial delegations departed from the national convention in Chicago.

The crystallization of view resulted from a series of conferences among those Senators who are supporting the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency.

One of those participating, Senator Hull (Dem., Tennessee), leaves for Chicago today to take part in the pre-convention platform discussions. He has been prominently mentioned for chairman of the Resolutions Committee.

On the other hand, one Senator who is supporting former Gov. Smith of New York for the nomination said he would fight for a plank recommending repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Robinson States Views.

Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas favors a Democratic plank advocating submission to the people of a prohibiting repeal amendment, stripped of alternative suggestions, and specifically not pledging members of the party to repeal.

Robinson made known his views in a formal statement.

Robinson said the Democratic objective should be a prohibition declaration both simple and frank, to contrast with the Republican party declaration, which, he said, was "intended to be ambiguous."

Robinson, who was Alfred E. Smith's running mate four years ago, qualified his advocacy with the expression that this line should be chosen "if a plank on the subject of prohibition should be incorporated."

As a dry, Robinson in the past has fought against raising the repeal issue.

At the convention date neared, there was continued discussion among Roosevelt supporters in the Senate of the advisability of attempting to abolish the two-thirds rule, which has always governed the selection of candidates in Democratic conventions.

Some of them have privately expressed the view that it appears that a "discriminatory minority is willing to wreck the party" in order to prevent Roosevelt's nomination then a majority rule should be voted.

One member of the Resolutions Committee discussing this proposal, said it could be done by a majority rule if it were included

SMITH AND M'ADOO TO LEAD FIGHT TO STOP ROOSEVELT

Two Bitter Opponents of New York Convention Have Common Cause at Chicago Meeting.

FIRST BALLOT TEST FOR LEADER PLANNED

New Yorker Expects Home State and Part of Illinois Vote to Put Him Over Without Delay.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 21.—Alfred E. Smith of New York and William G. McAdoo of California are about to arrive at the 1933 convention scene to combat a common opponent, Gov. Roosevelt of New York. Roosevelt's headquarters are putting every energy into a last-minute drive to nominate the New York Governor for the Presidency on the first ballot. They are counting on 98 of New York's 94 votes and about 20 to 25 from Illinois to bring victory.

The decision from New York is expected tomorrow when John F. Curry, Tammany leader arrives. But tomorrow also, comes in Alfred E. Smith, and of his strategy even the confident Roosevelt forces are wary.

Late today or early in the morning comes McAdoo, who is for Speaker Garner, whom he helped to defeat Roosevelt in California. McAdoo is a candidate for the Senate.

First Ballot Test. It is common gossip in the rapidly filling corridors about convention headquarters at the Congress Hotel, that the anti-Roosevelt strategy is to give the Governor his maximum strength on the first ballot. It is figured that cutting him down after the first ballot will be destructive.

The Roosevelt men have accepted that challenge and James A. Farley, spokesman here for the Governor, says he will win on the first ballot.

Meanwhile, speculation over abolition of the two-thirds rule persists as Roosevelt nears the majority mark in the number of pledged, instructed and claimed delegates.

Homer Cummings of Connecticut, advocate of Roosevelt, last night urged elimination of the two-thirds nomination rule. Farley significantly said he would say nothing about his views on the proposition until later in the week—until he knew where he stood.

Roosevelt in Control. Coincidentally, the Roosevelt forces are taking command of the convention machinery and J. P. J. Shouse, chairman of the Executive Committee and regarded as an ally of Smith, concedes they have the strength if they wish to exercise it. He is going ahead to contest the Roosevelt choice of Senator Walsh of Montana, as permanent chairman.

Convention followers fully expect this contest to afford Smith and his power of oratory the first blow in the battle against Roosevelt. Shouse was commended for the permanent chairmanship by the Arrangements Committee after friends of Roosevelt had insisted upon Senator Barkley of Kentucky, as temporary chairman and "key-note." Smith is standing by Shouse.

"Prohibition the Issue." Prohibition was named as the outstanding issue of the 1932 campaign today by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee upon his arrival at convention headquarters.

Raskob stood squarely behind J. P. Shouse, chairman of the executive committee, as permanent chairman for the convention. He said any attempt to supplant Shouse would be a breach of good faith. He declared against abolition of the two-thirds nominating rule for this convention. The man who managed the 1928 Smith campaign said he had no expectation of serving again as chairman.

Raskob said Farley, the Roosevelt director, had never notified him as chairman of the National Committee of any change in the plan to make Shouse permanent chairman of the convention. A short while later, Farley, with apparently the votes to elect Senator Walsh as permanent chairman, asked newspaper men "why should I tell Mr. Raskob?"

Raskob said he was willing to leave the prohibition plank to the decision of the delegates. He has advocated repeal of the eighteenth amendment in favor of State sale of liquor.

Farley predicted the Democratic plank on prohibition would be so written that "those who voted for the minority repeal plank in the Senator Huey P. Long reached Chicago late today from Washington and announced that he was 100 per cent for Franklin D. Roosevelt for President.

Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia arrived here today to take active leadership in his campaign for the Democratic Presidential nomination and issued a formal statement urging that the party "speak clearly and frankly" on prohibition.

New York Crowd Cheers Smith as He Leaves for Chicago.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 21.—Cheered by more than 1000 persons who crowded the platform at Grand Central Terminal, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith departed for the Democratic national convention at Chicago today aboard the Twentieth Century Limited.

Smith, who is a convention delegate as well as a candidate for the presidential nomination, said he was "not saying anything about anything," but he promised to issue a statement on his arrival in Chicago. He was accompanied by Mrs. Smith and a large party.

Joseph Prosser, a member of the former Governor's "kitchen cabinet," gave out a statement in which he said, "We are going to Chicago to obtain the nomination of Alfred E. Smith. Our mission is not to stop anyone else or to nominate anyone else."

Smith said he would have his statement ready "right after I get shaved tomorrow morning." He said he was not carrying a repeal plank with him. He referred to the pre-convention claims of James A. Farley, manager for Gov. Roosevelt, as "ballyhoo and Farley's bedtime stories."

"The only reason I am going out early," he told reporters, "is to get into the atmosphere of it and not have to bite at it from 500 miles away."

A. Mitchell Palmer Carrying Views of Roosevelt to Chicago.

By the Associated Press. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—A. Mitchell Palmer, Pennsylvania Democratic leader, is carrying Gov. Roosevelt's views on national issues to the Chicago convention in the Governor's own hand-writing.

For more than two hours yesterday the two conferred on a yacht on the regatta finish line. During the conference the Governor sat at a desk in his shirt sleeves and wrote out for the Pennsylvania his opinions.

The two men were associates in the Wilson Cabinet during war days. Palmer as Attorney-General and the Governor as Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Roosevelt is Assured of Six Votes in Indiana Delegation.

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 21.—Franklin D. Roosevelt was assured of six Indiana votes for the Democratic presidential nomination, as the party's State convention assembled today to name candidates for State office and for the United States Senate.

The Fifth Congressional District last night instructed their delegates to support the New York Governor. Four were told to favor Roosevelt as well as his name is before the convention; the other two were instructed to vote for him on the first ballot.

A movement to instruct the entire State delegation, which has 30 votes, was headed by Thomas Taggart of French Lick, National Committeean, said recently he thought Indiana Democratic sentiment to be that the delegation be uninstructed.

South Carolina's Platform Maker Urges Repeat Plank.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 21.—State Senator Fay A. Desportes of Winnsboro, who will represent South Carolina on the Platform Committee of the national Democratic convention, announced today he would work for a plank calling for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"The Democratic party cannot afford to straddle the prohibition issue," Desportes said. "The party is going to have to come out for straight repeal of the eighteenth amendment to win."

WOMAN, INJURED JUNE 12 IN AUTO ACCIDENT, DIES

Second of Four Injured When Car Hit Telephone Pole, Succumb.

Miss Nellie Ryan, 18-year-old shoe worker, of 3432A South Spring avenue, died today at Deaconess hospital of injuries suffered June 12, when she was thrown from an automobile which hit a telephone pole at Clayton avenue and Grandview place.

Leo McQuibb, 19 years old, of 4225 New Albany, driving the car, died the day after the accident. Two other persons in the car escaped with minor injuries.

Senate before the Republican convention.

Both Mr. Van Valkenburg and I stated that we were in favor of a revision of the eighteenth amendment and that we believed that Congress could be trusted to frame the text of the proposed amendment. Neither of us favored a repeal of the eighteenth amendment which would place the problem again precisely where it was in 1918.

"At the Chicago convention, as a delegate from Ohio, I voted against the minority report of the Committee on Resolutions favoring a submission of repeal presented by Senator Bingham. I subscribe wholeheartedly to the submission of the formula suggested by the majority report, which was adopted by the convention."

Mills said: "Since the Senator has referred to my position, I feel called upon to make a brief statement of my personal position on the subject. I have evidently misunderstood and possibly misinterpreted the Senator's position. While I have not been an advocate of the eighteenth amendment, I have not believed that mere repeal is the solution. On the contrary, I have become more and more convinced that the true remedy is to be found in modifying the eighteenth amendment so as to prevent a return of the conditions which existed prior to the eighteenth amendment, and the same time stamp out the undeniable evils that exist today."

Plank Call, Mills Declares. The Treasury Secretary denied that the liquor plank is indefinite and said "its important provisions are set out in clear and unambiguous language."

The broad principles, Mills said, may be summarized in one sentence: "Returning to the States initiative, determination and responsibility, and retention in the Federal Government of sufficient power to attain two specifically named objectives."

"When the time comes," he added, "formulating the new amendment may give rise to differences of opinion as to how best to apply these principles. But I am sure that the Congress can devise a constitutional amendment which will restore to the States and a sense of responsibility to the States and retain in the Congress power to enact legislation making available Federal authority for the protection of the dry States and preventing the return of the saloon."

James R. Garfield, Cleveland lawyer who played a leading role in drafting the Republican platform, said he had voted at the Chicago convention for the repeal plank. Senator Borah had "totally misinterpreted" the prohibition plank. He flatly disagreed with Borah's contention in his Senate speech yesterday that the plank was tantamount to a "saloon" plank.

Garfield said he expected to make a statement soon as to how he felt about the plank. He was guarded against under the Republican policy.

Garfield said the plank probably would not be approved by those who favor no change in prohibition or by those who favor outright repeal but would meet the approval "of the great mass of people in between those two groups."

Van Valkenburg Confirms Brown's Statement.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—E. A. Van Valkenburg, editor of the Philadelphia North American, now retired, issued a statement today agreeing with that given out by Postmaster-General Brown, in which the Cabinet members said that Senator Borah of Idaho was mistaken in stating Brown's position on prohibition.

"Postmaster-General Brown correctly states what occurred at his meeting with Senator Borah, at which I was present," Van Valkenburg's statement said. "Brown and myself were opposed to naked repeal of the eighteenth amendment and favored modification. Senator Borah distinctly favored the submission of a plan for restoring the control of the liquor problem to the States, if a method to that end could be devised which would prevent the return of the saloon. He stated he was endeavoring to prepare such a plan around the central idea contained in the proposition therefore advocated by the distinguished lawyer, William Guthrie, for the modification of the eighteenth amendment."

"There was no controversy over the proposition that some remedial measure should be submitted for ratification by the States under strictly constitutional procedure to correct the abuses that had grown up under the existing amendment. I regret that Senator Borah has failed to discuss what occurred at a private conversation."

GARNER DECLARES FOR REPEAL, ROOSEVELT MEN FOR STATE VOTE

In the recommendations of the rules committee at the opening of the convention.

McDuffie for Resubmission. Representative McDuffie of Alabama, the Democratic whip and supporter of Speaker Garner, told newspaper men today prohibition should be submitted to the people on the straight question of repeal.

"I believe there is sentiment enough in this country to justify submission of the straight question of repeal," said McDuffie, long counted among the Southern drys.

"I think the Speaker's statement is honest, straightforward, manly and courageous. In these days and times the American people are not interested in puffyfores on any question."

"No one has ever learned, in so far as I have ascertained, how President Hoover stands on prohibition."

Comment of Democrats on Garner's Declaration. Speaker Garner's declaration for repeal brought widespread comment from other Democratic leaders.

Senator Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, said that though he disagreed with Garner on prohibition, he would continue to support him for the presidency. The co-author of the eighteenth amendment said:

"I do not agree with Speaker Garner on repeal, but this does not mean I regard him for the president. I regard him as sound on all other vital questions."

Other comment follows: Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York: "That shows the drift. The convention will recommend repeal. A declaration that a repeal amendment should be submitted would, however, be free from ambiguities and could be understood by the people."

Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada: "I think he's made a very clear expression of his views, past and future. It is evidence that it will have a popular majority at the convention."

Senator Cushman (Dem.), New York: "That's good. I'm glad to hear it. It is very significant that a man who has occupied the position he has should express himself as he has. There will be a bitter contest over the plank and the 'international trade' plus the liberal stand of McAdoo makes it probable that the Garner delegates will vote for a liberal plank."

Senator Fess (Rep.), Ohio: "I have no doubt the convention will come out for repeal."

Senator Blaine (Rep.), Wisconsin: "They turn wet very quickly, don't they?"

Representative Howard (Dem.), Nebraska, one-time secretary to William Jennings Bryan: "The Speaker's statement will make a repeal plank in the platform."

Representative Cullen, leader of the Tammany delegation: "That is great language. There is no evasion there. It is the kind of a statement the people expect and demand from every man in public life."

Representative Bannard (Dem.), Alabama, another House leader: "It is a good statement. All of it is in accord with good, sound Democratic doctrine. Any Democrat can support it."

Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader: "I voted in the House to re-submit the eighteenth amendment, and I think the time has come when the people should have an opportunity to make a statement on the constitutional way as to prohibition."

Indiana Democrats Favor Repeal in "Temperance" Plank.

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 21.—Democrats of Indiana at their State convention today approved a platform containing a "temperance" plank which recommends that Congress "immediately propose the necessary amendment to the Federal Constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment."

The plank recommends that in the repeal amendment Congress specify that it shall be submitted to nonpartisan conventions of the people of the several States at

Text of Garner's Statement On Prohibition, Other Issues

WASHINGTON, June 21.

FOLLOWING is the text of the statement given to newspaper men by Speaker Garner today, presenting his views on prohibition and other matters to come before the Democratic national convention.

"Many of my friends, not only those residing in my own district and State, but throughout the country, have asked me repeatedly to express myself on various public questions."

"I have maintained the position I assumed when I was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives that I would not indulge in the discussion of controversial issues not immediately under consideration by the House."

"Moreover, during the 30 years I have been a member of Congress, practically every principle involved in the problems of the nation today has been before the House and my views thereon are a matter of record."

"This country has erected tariff barriers that are practically excluding the products of foreign nations. This makes it economically impossible for these nations to buy from us the products of our farms and our factories, thereby aggravating our industrial depression."

"All relief measures so far have been purely temporary and do not go to the root of the trouble. No sound thinking citizen can favor the dole; neither can the Government sit idly by and see its people starve when they are willing to work."

"Enough work must be provided to keep the people from starving and we shall be fortunate indeed if this tremendous cost minimum does not greatly exceed the amount provided in the relief measures which I sponsored."

"Before genuine and permanent relief can be accomplished, the finances of the basic industries of this nation must be placed on a sane basis thereby removing the specter of receiverships and foreclosures and restoring their buying power and ability to employ labor."

"International trade must be re-established by the restoration of international confidence and credits. Honestly among nations is as essential a virtue as honesty among individuals.

"An individual who borrows and makes no honest effort to pay is dishonest; the same applies to a nation.

"If foreign debts should be canceled the credit of the nations involved would be destroyed and they cannot borrow again."

"The Government of the United States owes it to its citizens to collect from the debtor nations to the extent of the claims in the capital seeking payment of their bonds. Confessions of debt were initiated today by Paul H. Glassford, Washington Superintendent of Police.

CITY TOBACCO TAX KILLED; 4 OTHER LEVIES APPROVED

Aldermanic Committee Votes for Increase in Sales Assessment and Ad Valorem Charge.

5-CENT TELEPHONE PROPOSAL HELD UP

Item for Collection From Undertakers Accepted—Barbers to Pay $1 a Chair Instead of $2.

A special tax bill which would have placed a levy of 20 per cent on retail sales of tobacco was killed yesterday by the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which approved four other measures designed to raise funds for public relief appropriations. Action on five others was deferred until Monday.

The committee approved bills which would:

Increase the merchants' and manufacturers' sales tax from $1 on each $1000 in sales to $1.50. Increase the ad valorem tax on merchants and manufacturers from $1.25 on each $100 in stock to $1.45.

Tax barber shops $1 for each chair.

Tax undertakers from $25 to $200 annually, depending upon the volume of their business.

These bills, which may be passed by July 1, would enable the city to appropriate more than $500,000 to the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment during the fiscal year which ends next April.

The relief committee has estimated it would need nearly $1,500,000 to run its present funds to completion in full operation until Jan. 1.

Amusement Tax Held Up. Bills on which the Aldermanic committee deferred action would:

Tax amusements the rate of one cent on admissions of 30 cents up to 20 cents on admissions of $4.

Tax telephones five cents a month, the tax to be paid by the company.

Tax real estate dealers from $25 to $100 a year.

Tax bowling alleys $10 a year. Tax slot machines $5 a year.

The telephone tax has been estimated to yield $900,000 a year, and the amusement tax $100,000. What revenue might be derived from the others has not been estimated. Another pending special tax bill would require trust companies to pay a license fee of $500 a year.

As she stepped into a car at the Battery, New York, which took her in the parade up Broadway to the City Hall for the official welcome, yesterday.

HOOVER GIVES MEDAL TO AMELIA EARHART

"My Exploit Not Worth Such a Great Honor," She Tells President.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 21.—President Hoover greeted Amelia Earhart today and congratulated her on her flight across the Atlantic. She was ushered into his office, where they chatted together, and then went to pose for photographers on the lawn behind the executive offices. Mrs. Hoover was a member of the group.

In a pre-presentation of the special gold medal of the National Geographic Society, which President Hoover will formally give to the flyer tonight, President Hoover said, "It gives me a very great deal of pleasure to present you with this rarely conferred medal. The whole American people is proud of you and your performance."

"I do thank you sincerely," Miss Earhart said. "But I fear my exploit was not worth such a great honor."

In addressing the flyer, President Hoover first called Mrs. Earhart, then smilingly changed it to "or, I should say, Mrs. Putnam." She is the wife of George P. Putnam, who accompanied her here by airplane today.

Following the White House ceremony the flyer and her party were luncheon guests of the board of trustees of the National Geographic Society.

Later, the Senate recessed briefly to receive Miss Earhart. Amid applause, Senators Bingham and Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, escorted her from the Vice President's room. Smiling, she stood a few steps from the dais and received the Senators who passed by in single file, each shaking her hand.

Miss Earhart appeared in the House gallery a little later. The members arose in a body, applauding and cheering.

TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE MEETS WITH P. S. CO. MEN

Holds Executive Session on Plan for Municipally-Owned, Unified Transit System.

The city's Joint Transportation Committee met in executive session today with representatives of the Public Service Co. and afterward gave out this statement:

"The committee representing informally the owners presented a suggestion for carrying out city ownership without involving the city's credit or the expenditure of city money. The committee representing the city came to no conclusion and will study the suggestion presented."

None of the participants would amplify the statement. The city's joint committee was authorized by the Board of Aldermen to work out the details of a municipally owned unified transit system, along lines approved by an earlier aldermanic committee. The aldermanic plan included a method of financing suggested by its special counsel, former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, which would not involve the general credit of the city.

The new joint committee was to determine what part of existing transit facilities would be useful in a co-ordinated city system and the price and terms upon which such parts as were found to be useful could be acquired.

It could not be learned whether the company's suggestions today were directly responsive to these purposes, but the committee asked the company to bring in a more definite proposal at a later meeting. Some of the discussion turned about the usefulness of buses in a modern transit system, but it was not learned whether the committee has taken steps to determine the extent to which buses and street cars, respectively, should fit into the transportation system.

The city's committee is composed of Aldermen Edward W. Wiehe, Louis Fischer and William J. Studt, and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment—Mayor Miller, President Neun of the Board of Aldermen and Comptroller Nolte. All attended today's meeting. City Counselor Muehich also was present.

Representing the Public Service Co. were Stanley Clarke, president; Walter E. Smith, president of the First National Bank; J. M. Jones, president of the Boatmen's National Bank; James Grover of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. and Hugo Wurdack and Arnold Stifel, investment brokers.

HOTEL GUEST TIED TO BED, LIPS TAPED IN $32 ROBBERY Holdup Man Escapes After Locking Thomas A. Kennedy in Room at the American.

Thomas A. Kennedy, a guest at the American Hotel, was held up in his room last night by an armed man, who tied Kennedy to a bed and fled with $32.

Kennedy, a salesman living in Evanston, Ill., reported he was reading in his room with the door unlocked at 10 o'clock when the man walked in.

Ordering the salesman to lie on the bed, the robber bound him with a piece of rope and placed a strip of adhesive tape over his lips. The robber tied the end of the rope to the bed, took the money from Kennedy's pockets and departed after locking the door. Kennedy released himself and his shouts brought hotel employees to the room.

The robber was described as being about 40 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 200 pounds. His clothing included a brown suit and a straw hat.

Mon Hing, a Chinese, was held up in his restaurant at 2721 Boulevard avenue last night by a Negro armed with a revolver, who took $5 and fled on foot.

Burglars using a duplicate key entered the home of Charles F. Morris, 4951 Lindenwood avenue, stealing jewelry worth $150, a rifle, pistol and revolver.

WOMAN MOTORIST IS HELD FOR CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS

Driver of Car That Struck Truck, Killing One Person and Injuring Nine.

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned at St. Charles yesterday against Mrs. Ida Strecker, a widow, 4110 Russell boulevard, in the death Sunday of Mrs. Mabel Nenckoff, 4644A Vernon avenue. Mrs. Nenckoff died of injuries suffered when an automobile driven by Mrs. Strecker struck a truck in which she and nine other persons were riding near Wright City, Mo., on Highway 40.

Witnesses testified that Mrs. Strecker drove her car off the concrete slab in attempting to pass the truck, both machines being westbound. In getting back onto the slab her machine swerved against the truck, upsetting it.

Mrs. Nenckoff, who was 35 years old, suffered internal injuries, and died at a St. Charles hospital several hours later. Her husband and three children, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coleman, 4816A Easton avenue, and their three children, were cut and bruised.

Mrs. Strecker testified that she was driving at a speed of 25 miles an hour, and that the accident was unavoidable. She furnished $1500 bond, pending presentation of the case to authorities of Warren County, the scene of the collision.

MOUSE DEER AT ZOO SMALLER THAN SQUIRREL Chevrolet Only 23 Inches Long, Largest of Its Species.

Two full-grown mouse deer, smaller than a squirrel, are among recent arrivals at the Zoo.

The deer, also known as chevrolans, are found in the great forests of India and in the Malay region, while the squirrel used for comparison, also a new arrival, is the malabar, a native of Malaysia.

The mouse deer are by far the smallest of the ruminants. Their hooved legs are no bigger than pencils, they have no horns and their maximum length is 22 inches.

The squirrel, dark brown, tawny and light orange, is the largest of its species. The Zoo's specimens are on exhibit in the small mammal wing of the Reptile House, while the mouse deer are in a paddock connected with the Otchik House.

Also now on exhibit in the paddocks are three Sicilian donkeys, a male and two females, smallest of the equine family. They were donated by August A. Busch.

VERDICT OF CARELESSNESS IN KILLING OF MAN BY TRUCK

Driver Gives $1000 Bond After His Machine Runs Down Father of Seven Children.

A Coroner's verdict of carelessness was returned today against John Anderson, chauffeur for a construction company, whose truck killed Stephen A. Gittemeier, 49 years old, father of seven children, in front of 5115 St. Louis avenue, in St. Louis County, yesterday afternoon.

Anderson, residing at 4111 Delmar boulevard, furnished $1000 bond to answer any charge which may be brought against him.

Witnesses testified that Gittemeier was tinkering with his automobile, which apparently had run out of gasoline, and was standing with his back toward the roadway. The heavy quarry truck brushed against a truck belonging to a soda water company, barged across the street, and swerved against Gittemeier, crushing him against his car.

Gittemeier, a carpenter, lived at 4015 Cedarwood avenue, Pine Lawn.

ESCAPED SLAYER SEIZED HERE AS SWINDLE SUSPECT

Prisoner Identified as Murderer of Denver Woman Who Was Sentenced to Prison for Life.

A man arrested in St. Louis Friday as Leonard Hagey, accused in a wire-tapping swindle which cost telegraph companies about $14,500, has been identified as an escaped murderer.

St. Louis police were informed today by the National Bureau of Identification at Washington, D. C., that Hagey is James Orville Turley, who escaped from the penitentiary at Canon City, Colo., five years ago, while serving a life term for murder.

Hagey, or Turley, has been returned to Detroit, where he faces charges of obtaining money under false pretenses based on the wire-tapping swindle. Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Toy of Detroit is quoted in dispatches from that city as saying the Colorado man, have Turley if that State wants him.

Pending word from Colorado, he has withheld filing of formal charges.

Turley was convicted at Denver in 1923 of the murder of Mrs. Emma Wise, proprietor of a rooming house. At his trial alienists characterized him as a "dangerous lunatic."

While waiting to be transferred from the Denver County jail to the penitentiary at Canon City Turley made a desperate effort to escape. In prison he became a member of the band, and when the band played a waltz at Hugo, Colo., in September, 1927, Turley made his escape.

A few days later Mrs. George Nelson, wife of a rancher near Jarco Canon, was approached by three men who demanded food. They forced their way into the rancher's cabin and Mrs. Nelson fainted. When she revived she found her right hand had been pinned to the floor by an ice pick driven through the palm. She identified a picture of Turley as the leader of the group.

Turley was arrested last Friday at the Lincoln Hotel, 2325 Olive street, soon after he had arrived from Columbus, O. Police there had arrested Mrs. Florence Hadley, also accused in the wire-tapping swindle, and among her possessions were found passports to England for herself and Turley, under the name Hagey.

Fingerprints sent to the National Bureau of Identification after Turley's arrest here resulted in his identification as the escaped murderer. He had admitted participating in the wire-tapping swindle, with Mrs. Hadley and a man who is sought. Their scheme was to tap telegraph wires in an outlying district and send fake money orders which were cashed by Mrs. Hadley.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the grain elevator of the Gillett & Peyton Elevator Co., on Highway 40, near the east approach of the St. Charles bridge, early today. Damage was estimated at $1500. The St. Charles Fire Department was unsuccessful in an attempt to save the building, which was covered with corrugated iron. The elevator had a capacity of 40,000 bushels.

MERCHANT, NURSE TAKE POISON IN SUICIDE COMPACT

St. Joseph, Mo., Coal Man, Father of Six, Dead at Kansas City—Woman Is Seriously Ill.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 21.—James Patton Andriano, 41 years old, a prominent St. Joseph (Mo.) business man, is dead and Miss Ada Bendon, 23, a registered nurse, also of St. Joseph, is in a serious condition from poison taken in an apparent suicide agreement.

Andriano, father of six children, was found dead yesterday in a downtown hotel apartment. Miss Bendon was found unconscious in the same room. One of several notes and letters addressed to friends and relatives of the nurse told of "Jim's and our love" and of inability to "stand being apart." A note written on a sealed letter asked that her sister, Miss Nelly M. Bendon, Columbia, Mo., be notified in case of accident.

Hotel employees said the two had registered June 14 at Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stewart, St. Louis.

Mrs. Maximilian J. Andriano, mother of the dead man, identified the body, she came from St. Joseph Sunday to look for her son, and entered the apartment with a pass key after receiving no response to her calls.

Andriano was secretary-treasurer of the Sunshine Coal Co. He had entered the business shortly after his graduation from the University of Missouri. He was president of the Missouri Valley Retail Coal Merchants' Association in 1924-25. Miss Bendon was supervisor at the St. Joseph hospital.

Merchant Met Nurse When She Attended His Daughter. By the Associated Press. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 21.—Arrangements were being made today for the funeral of James P. Andriano, church and Y. M. C. A. worker, found dead in a Kansas City hotel late yesterday, presumably in a suicide agreement with Ada Bendon, nurse, whom he met when she attended his young daughter at Sunny Slope Hospital a year ago.

Mrs. Andriano notified city authorities several weeks ago of the intimacy of her husband and the nurse.

DEARMONT RAKES SLATE-MAKING BY BOSS PENDERGAST

Denounces His Effort to Deprive St. Louis of Representation on Democratic Ticket.

State Senator Russell L. Dearmont virtually concluded his personal campaign in St. Louis and St. Louis County for the Democratic nomination for Governor in Webster Groves last night. He will devote all of his time during the remaining six weeks of the campaign to the State outside of St. Louis, with the possible exception of one or two speeches in St. Louis just before the primary election.

As in the big meeting in the Twenty-fourth Ward Saturday night, Dearmont at Webster Groves pressed the issue of boss control of the primary, and denounced the effort of Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City to deprive St. Louis and Eastern Missouri of representation on the State ticket. "If we do not purge the Democratic party of boss control in the primary," Dearmont said, "the Republicans will take full advantage of the issue in the general election. Boss-controlled parties have been minority parties and losing parties in all elections, almost without exception, in every state where bosses have ruled in party affairs."

"If the Democrats are to win in Missouri they must be free of boss control."

Pendergast's Slate.
Dearmont directed attention to the fact that although the Democratic vote in St. Louis was much larger than it is in Kansas City, Pendergast had made up a slate of candidates for all offices, and had refused his endorsement to any candidate for State office residing in St. Louis or within 100 miles of it.

The only St. Louis candidate for any office who is on the Pendergast slate is John J. Cochran for Congress. In making up the congressional slate Pendergast has endorsed eight candidates, withholding action on the remaining five until later in the campaign. Two of the eight are from Kansas City, Joseph B. Shannon and H. H. Crittenden. Two, R. T. Wood and James Ruffin, are from Springfield. The others are Ralph Loxier of Carrollton, John D. Taylor of Keytesville and Frank H. Lee of Joplin.

Most of the remaining 48 candidates for Congress have been led to believe that they have a chance for the endorsement, but only five can get it.

Kansas City Men Favored.
As has been published, the Pendergast candidate for United States Senator, Charles M. Howell, and for Governor, Francis M. Wilson, reside in Kansas City.

For Judge of Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court, Pendergast has approved Judge Charles T. Hays of Hannibal, there being no Kansas City candidate for the place. But for Judges of Division No. 2 he has selected two from Kansas City, Judge Clarence A. Burney and E. M. Tipton.

Some St. Louis organization Democrats who have joined with Pendergast in support of Wilson for Governor, are under the impression that the Kansas City boss will include Judge John F. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, a Supreme Court Commissioner, on his slate for Judges of Division No. 2, but seemingly authentic reports from within the Pendergast organization are that the full weight of the Pendergast support will go to Burney and Tipton, and that Fitzsimmons cannot expect any consideration in that quarter.

Concessions by the Boss.
For Secretary of State, Pendergast has chosen Dwight H. Brown of Poplar Bluff over C. P. Cauthorn, a Kansas City candidate. However, he is not relentless as to this job as he is on the Senatorship, the Governorship and the Judgeships. He is permitting the Cassimer Welch faction of his organization to support Cauthorn.

Likewise for Lieutenant Governor, he is supporting Frank R. Harris of Columbia, but is permitting the Shannon faction to take his vote to Floyd Sperry of Clinton. Dearmont did not discuss the individual endorsements by Pendergast, but forcefully pointed out that virtually all of them, except for some uncontested offices, were grouped in Kansas City or the western part of the State.

Dearmont departed this morning for Sedalia, where he speaks tonight. Charles A. Lee, State Superintendent of Schools, will speak tonight in support of Dearmont's candidacy at a meeting of the Twenty-fourth Ward Dearmont Club, Kingshighway and Reber place. Mrs. Mary E. Ryder, candidate for one of the nominations for Congress, also will speak.

Second R. F. C. Loan to Railroad.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 21. — The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved a loan of $85,434 by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Fort Smith & Western Railroad Co. The money is to be used to pay bills for materials, rents and other expenses and Arkansas and Oklahoma taxes. This is the second loan to the Fort Smith & Western which applied on Feb. 23 for a total of $250,000. On March 11, the commission approved a loan of $182,000. The carrier is in the hands of a receiver.

50 HELD IN KILLING OF MILFORD JONES

Roundup in Detroit Follows Indictments Naming Four in Gangster's Murder.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, June 21.—More than 50 men and women were held today following overnight raids on pool rooms, night clubs and speakeasies in an effort to round up suspects in the slaying last Wednesday of Milford Jones, gangster.

The raids followed secret indictments yesterday by the Wayne County Grand Jury, charging four men with the slaying of Jones in the Stork Club cabaret. After the indictments were returned police said that Jones' death was the result of a fight for control of the underworld in Toledo, but police in that city denied the statement.

100 Attend Funeral Services Here for Milford Jones.

Funeral services for Milford Jones were held yesterday afternoon at Donnelly's undertaking chapel, 3846 Lindell boulevard, where in a room banked with many floral tributes, a priest spoke briefly to a group of nearly 100 acquaintances and relatives.

Among the funeral wreaths, several of size were from organizations of stage hands, to which Jones, or Jonas, his real surname, belonged. Two large wreaths bore ribbons inscribed in gilt letters: "My Buddy," and "My Friend."

Nearly 50 automobiles followed the hearse to Valhalla Cemetery, where burial services were held at a family plot.

POLICEMAN SUES TO ENJOIN SALARY LEVY FOR RELIEF

Remmers Says Action of Patrolman Is in Violation of Department Rules.

A policeman's suit, to restrain his superior officers from requiring or asking him to give 10 per cent of his pay for unemployment relief, will be heard June 30 by Judge Norton. If the plaintiff is still a member of the Police Department.

Chairman Remmers of the Police Board said today that the action of the petitioner, Patrolman Gilbert Kennedy of 2117 Macklind avenue, in retaining counsel and filing a suit without the board's approval, was in violation of police regulations. He said he could not say whether the board would take this matter up at its meeting Friday. Attorneys point out that if Kennedy ceased to be a member of the department he could not maintain the suit as he would no longer be an interested party.

Remmers said no action would be taken against Kennedy and others for their refusal to sign the 10 per cent pledges, but that the breach of regulations involved in Kennedy's suit was another matter. He said he did not believe that the suit had legal merit as it was an attempt to restrain the receiving of voluntary pledges. The pledge plan, Remmers said, originated with Chief of Police Gerk, has been approved by the board, and no compulsion has been used in obtaining pledges.

Kennedy's petition, filed yesterday afternoon through the firm of Dubinsky & Duggan, is directed against the Police Board, the city officials composing the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, Chief of Police Gerk and Chief of Detectives Kaiser. The request for an injunction is made "in behalf of all the members of the Police Department."

BOY, 14, GOES ON TRIAL FOR KILLING MAN IN HOLDUP

Estle Austill, Who Ran Away From Home Here, Charged With Poplar Bluff Slaying.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DONIPHAN, Mo., June 21.—Selection of a jury for the trial of Estle Austill, 14-year-old St. Louis boy charged with the murder in a holdup at Poplar Bluff or a filling station operator, was completed late today. After the jury was chosen Judge Cope ordered a recess before the calling of the first witness.

Judge Cope overruled a motion of defense attorneys to disqualify members of the jury who read newspaper accounts of the holdup in which W. E. Haley, 55, was killed.

The Austill boy, born at Webb City Mo., last September ran away from the home of his father, Clyde Austill, who resided at 3195 South Grand boulevard, St. Louis. He did not want to go to school, so went to Poplar Bluff to live with an uncle, Clyde Anderson. His mother died when he was three years old, while his father and family resided at Malden, Mo.

The elder Austill said he will stand by his son through the trial. The courthouse was filled when the case was called.

WANTS OVERTIME ELIMINATED

Legion Campaign Chairman Suggests Hiring Extra Workers.

A suggestion that employers eliminate overtime work by hiring additional help was made yesterday by H. D. McBride, chairman of the American Legion's employment campaign. He said reports had been received that employees of many companies were working overtime to fill seasonal orders. Additional workers would cost no more, McBride said, and their employment would help relieve distress.

Reports of 38 permanent and 44 temporary jobs were received yesterday, making the total $262, of which 2595 are classified as permanent.

REPULSIVE!

to use your handkerchief over and over

USE KLEENEX and destroy at once!

EVER stop to think how repulsive a handkerchief is, once it's used?

It certainly is nothing you want to carry back to your face. It's not even fit to put in a laundry bag—where it contaminates other clothing. It's incredible to think that anyone could choose to use a handkerchief, now that Kleenex is sold everywhere—at a price so reasonable that it actually costs less than laundering!

Kleenex is a disposable tissue that is rapidly replacing handkerchiefs altogether. Highly absorbent... soft... downy... sanitary... economical... really superior in every way to handkerchiefs of cloth. Very convenient, too—you simply destroy after using. No self-infection, during a cold or hay-fever. Kleenex is ideal for children. Also for removing cold cream and cosmetics.

CANDIDATE HOWELL FOR RESUBMISSION

Democrat in Race for Senatorial Nomination Urges States' Rights.

By the Associated Press.
BROOKFIELD, Mo., June 21.—Charles M. Howell, Democratic candidate for the United States Senatorial nomination, in an address here last night said he believed the prohibition question could "only be solved by the Democratic principle of the right of the states to control their domestic affairs."

"If I am nominated and elected to the United States Senate, I will vote to resubmit the question to the people, in the manner provided by the Constitution of the United States," Howell said. He added that "in this way only can the necessary public support for regulatory and prohibitory laws be secured, respect for law restored, lawlessness curbed and the people relieved from the tremendous burden of the cost of enforcing a law which does not have the sanction of united public opinion back of it."

"The people of each state should have the right to decide what form of regulatory or prohibitory method they prefer and those states which prefer the prohibitory method should have the protection and assistance of the Federal Government, if desired."

Francis M. Wilson Begins "Front Porch" Campaign.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PLATTE CITY, Mo., June 21.—Francis M. Wilson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, addressed approximately 500 Kansas City Democrats yesterday from the "front porch" of the Wilson home in Platte City, to which he has returned from his Kansas City home to conduct his campaign.

Wilson indirectly referred to the support being given him by Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, and the charge in the campaign that he is a "boss-controlled candidate."

"I never could go to Jefferson City and properly serve your State as a cog in a political machine," he said. "The man who becomes Governor must be unfettered and in a position to give his best ability to his office."

NEW SKIPPER FOR 'AKRON,' SEA DUTY FOR ROSENDAHL

Lieutenant-Commander to Turn Dirigible Over to Commander Algar H. Dresel Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
LAKELAND, N. J., June 21.—Lieutenant-Commander Charles F. Rosendahl, who has been in command of the U. S. S. Akron since it was commissioned in April, 1931, will turn the big dirigible over to Commander Algar H. Dresel at 8 a. m. tomorrow in the dirigible's hangar, with the officers and crew of the ship, 102 in number, drawn up at attention.

The ceremony will put Dresel, who prefers sea duty, in charge of the airship and will transfer Rosendahl to the bridge of the U. S. S. West Virginia. A tour of sea duty for Rosendahl is necessary for promotion.

The new skipper of the Akron is 43 years old. He was born at Annapolis, Md., and was graduated from the Naval Academy at 20. He has been stationed at Lakeland since 1929. Rosendahl was graduated from Annapolis in 1914. He was one of the survivors of the Shenandoah wreck.

JOHN GRIER HIBBEN RETIRES AS PRESIDENT OF PRINCETON U.

Receives Degree of Doctor of Letters on 50th Anniversary of Graduation.

By the Associated Press.
PRINCETON, N. J., June 21.—John Grier Hibben today received the degree of doctor of letters and then retired as president of Princeton University, which he had headed for the last 20 years.

The degree was conferred on Hibben by Dean Augustus Trovbridge, of the Princeton graduate school. It was the fiftieth anniversary of Hibben's graduation from Princeton. Before he was chosen for the presidency, he was a member of the faculty for 21 years.

After the ceremony, Hibben relinquished his office to acting president Edward Duffield of Newark, N. J. With Mrs. Hibben he will sail on July 9 for an extended tour of the British Isles and the European continent.

RUSH TO SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS

Enrollment of children yesterday at the opening of public school playgrounds was about 50 per cent greater than last year's figure. Richard Murphy, president of the Board of Education, said at the dedication of Oak Hill School playground, Morganford road and Oscola street, yesterday.

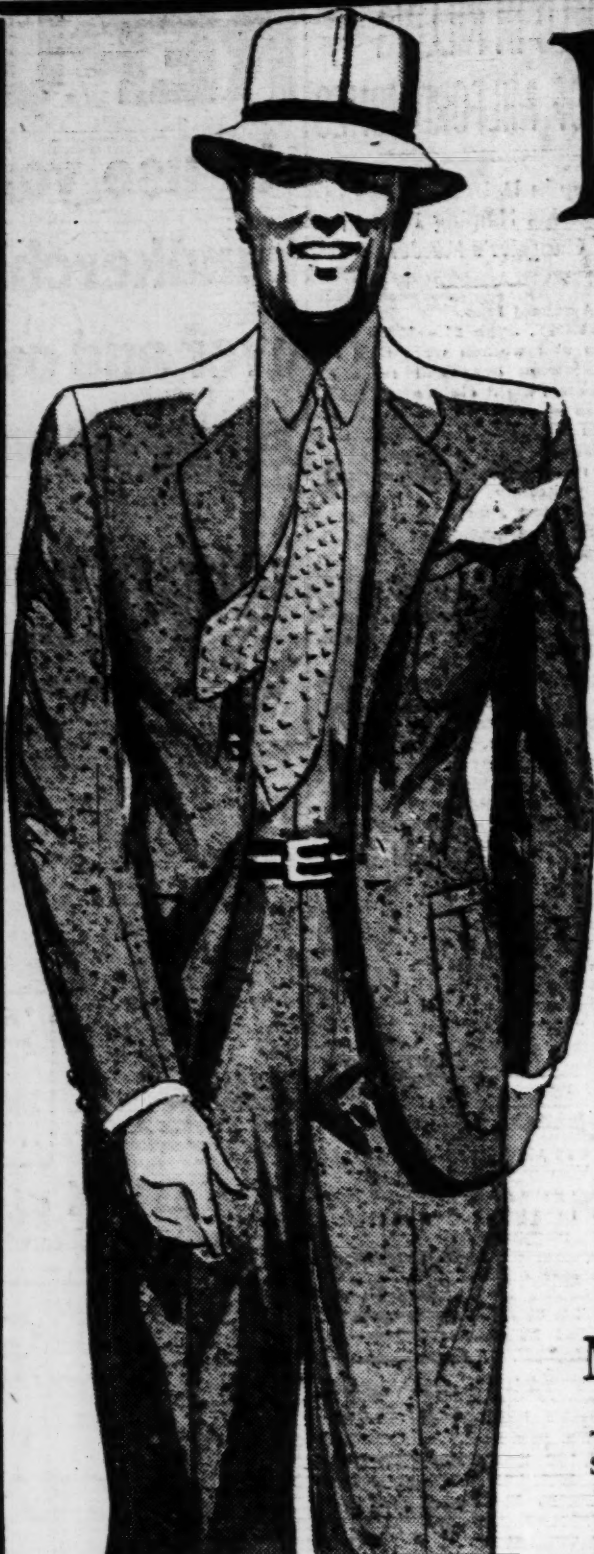

The increase is probably due to the closing of summer schools this year, he said.

"This May Be Last Grocery Order," Families Assisted by Citizens' Relief Committee Are Told

Preparations Begun to Cut List From 25,000 to 10,000 by July 15, in Event More Money Is Not Forthcoming.

Families being helped by relief agencies of the Citizens' Committee are being told by the social workers who visit them this week that before another week is out they may be dropped from the list of those to be assisted.

"This may be the last grocery order I can give you," the workers repeat as they make their weekly

False Teeth
Don't allow your false teeth to drop or slip when you eat, talk or laugh.
Just sprinkle a little Kling on your plates. This new improved powder forms a comfort cushion—holds plates so snug, they feel and act like your own teeth. No more danger of rocking plates—eating will again be a joy. Leading dentists endorse Kling. Guaranteed better than anything you ever used or money back.

rounds. To the man who has been living in a single furnished room with his wife and five children; to the family of 10, two of them invalids, five of them children, who occupy a five-room house through the generosity of the landlord; to all in need, the message is the same: "This may be the last grocery order I can give you."

For the Citizens' Committee, lacking $1,500,000 of what it would need to continue help until Jan. 1, to the 25,000 families it is now assisting, has told its affiliated relief agencies that by July 15 they must reduce that number to 10,000.

Hard to Choose.
"How can we choose which to keep and which to leave to shift for themselves?" asked Peter Kasius, manager of the Provident Association, largest of the relief agencies. "It is a simple matter to choose between two families, when you find in one of them invalids or children, and in the other er able-bodied, but unemployed adults."

"But we're not dealing with two families. We are dealing with 25-000, and on what basis can we decide that these 10,000 are more deserving than those 15,000, or that their need is more desperate?"

It was a rhetorical question and one of the staff workers who had been called in to report on conditions in her district did not attempt to answer it. But her voice broke as she described her visits to the 97 families in a North St.
Louis district who are receiving help from the Provident Association through her. For the average family the help consists of an order each week for $3.80 in groceries.

"This may be the last grocery order I can give you," she had told the man who should have been the wage-earner for the family of 10, which included two invalids and five children. He flared up. "All right, I go out and get it some way," he replied, and went on to see my children suffer." But he had calmed down somewhat when the social worker left, and clung to the hope that maybe something would be done for his family.

Earned $16 in Two Years.
Another family she visited was that of a man who had worked for a steel company for 18 years and was earning $250 a month when he was laid off two years ago. Since then he has earned a total of $16, which did not go far toward supporting his wife and two children. But they managed to struggle along until four months ago.

"This may be the last grocery order
I can give you," she had told them.
Utter despair overwhelmed the man, but the wife stood it cour-ageously. She has been making about $4 a month taking in washing. Perhaps she could get some more to do, and maybe the 16-year-old girl, out of high school now, could find a job.

So it went throughout the district. There were hysterical women to contend with, sullen men, and uncomprehending children who complicated the problem enormously. "It would be easy enough for the two of us to walk into the river," was the response from one family, "but there are the children."

Only One Man Resentful.
Only once was there personal resentment toward the social worker expressed. That came from a man with eight children who made $5.60 at odd jobs last week. He had been told that this should enable him to buy food for his family this week, not much, but enough to live on, and others were in worse need of the grocery order which would have gone to him. Hotly he replied, "If you find my family dead this week, remember that you did it."

In this North St. Louis district, the worker explained, live families ordinarily hard-working, thrifty, worth-while citizens. A few years ago they were buying automobiles, some of them were buying homes, and raising large families of children. There are many with eight children, and they average four or five, most of them 9 years old or younger.

Their automobiles and their homes are gone, but they still have the children. In the 97 families under the care of this social worker, 19 mothers expect children soon, or have borne them in recent months.

SHARKEY TO PIT HIS SKILL AGAINST SCHMELING'S RUGGEDNESS

GERMAN, HOWEVER, CONTINUES AS CONSENSUS CHOICE; CHALLENGER HAS A 17-POUND WEIGHT EDGE

the heart to resist determinedly, to take the early punishment and keep fighting, have been the ones to discourage the Lithuanian. Stubbhorn men have been Sharkey's bane. Risko, the Cleveland rubberman; Tom Heene, the Hard Rock from Down Under; Jack Dempsey, who never knew the word quit was in the dictionary, and even Max Schmeling himself, all took the full fire of Sharkey and came on. Risko beat him; Heene, a poor fighter at best, but one with a great heart, gained a draw, and Dempsey, who never took a backward step unless knocked back, put Sharkey out. Against these and others, Sharkey took the lead and could not hold it. Only a few opponents, defeated in one way or another, fell decisively before Jack.

On the other hand, fight records, with relentless certainty, disclose that Schmeling, the "German Jack Dempsey," is exactly the opposite type, that all his fights have been won by coming from behind. In his title defense against Stribling, the Southerner was out in front in the earlier rounds, but the end saw Willie on the floor. It was eight rounds before Max got started against that tough, egg Paulino, then he murdered him; and it was not until the eighth or ninth round that Max began to make Risko understand that he was a battler who grew better as the fight wore on. Few concede Sharkey a Chance.

In the face of these differences of fighting character plus the fact that Sharkey is older, heavier than he should be and known to entertain the belief that he ought not suffer a bad beating or facial disfigurement, it is hard for any of the experts to concede Sharkey more than an outside chance. And yet none of the experts who are passing judgment on Sharkey and who sat at ringside when he met Schmeling in their first encounter can forget or explain away the fact that Sharkey, for the three and a fraction rounds the fight lasted, literally knocked Schmeling all over the ring. Jack hit Max with both hands at will and to any point of the head or body. It appeared to some that he would surely batter down the German before the fight was two or three rounds older. Schmeling scarcely hit him a worthwhile blow in the baste. Then a low blow gave Max victory.

It is hard to reconcile this fight with the overwhelming opinion that Schmeling is going to beat Sharkey tonight. Nothing in their training camp developments warrants any certainty. The experts all admit that Sharkey has had the best training period of his career; that he is bigger and stronger than ever, and that his disposition is even and confident. On the other hand, there have been opinions written that Schmeling is over-trained and drawn; and that one of his sparring partners had him almost out in a recent boxing practice. There isn't much doubt that Sharkey's temperamental acts in the ring in past fights and his lack of resolution in certain battles when his opponent stood up under punishment have discouraged Sharkey supporters. Nevertheless, it must be confessed that on what has been shown of fighting skill and experience, Sharkey has it in him physically and scientifically to beat Schmeling. Whether his heart is capable of backing up his knowledge and skill in a 15-round encounter with a dogged, uphill fighter is for each fight clairvoyant to consider.

Sharkey Figures Better. In some features, Sharkey figures better than Schmeling. He will have a 17-pound weight advantage; he will have had experience against far better fighters than many of the men Schmeling has met; he is a faster and more alert biter than his rival, and finally, he has an added incentive in the thought that this is his last chance to prove to the great American hand of Sharkey knockers that they have been all wrong.

In this writer's opinion, one of the greatest inspirations to Sharkey will come from this fact, plus the knowledge that if he doesn't win the title all he will get out of the show will be a miserable 10 percent which will net him about $30,000, probably less money than even Tony Canzone, the light-weight king, will get for defending his title. To bring back the championship to America and thereby flout his detractors may mean more money to the already wealthy Jack. I talked to Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, yesterday, and asked him what was Sharkey's attitude toward the coming fight. "That's easy to answer," he replied. "He told me when I said there wasn't going to be much money in it for us: 'Well, maybe there won't be much money in it, but there'll be what I want and that's the title and a chance to show up the people who have been criticizing me.' Sharkey has this fight in his craw and there won't be anything to it. Schmeling won't even get to the point where he can do his ditch plodder stuff—he'll be out before the sixth round."

You can take that or leave it. But it does voice a real reason why Sharkey should make a last-ditch stand and put up a better fight than usual. At that, we don't expect the leopard to change its spots. Sharkey has shown that he

Carnera, Back in America, Favors Schmeling to Win

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 21. PRIMO CARNERA, giant Italian heavyweight boxer, returned to this country yesterday and picked Max Schmeling to defeat Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailor weighs more than 200 pounds.

Carnera, who has been in the United States for some time, can't control himself and that he isn't a good finisher. If he changes in tonight's fight, it can't be deduced from his record. No Fool Is Possible. The bout will be the first world heavyweight title battle ever fought without a foul being possible. Since Sharkey lost to Schmeling via the low-blow route, the New York Commission has passed a rule compelling the fighter hit low to get up and continue, or be counted out. This would seem brutal but for the fact that a protector devised a year or more ago amply safeguards boxers from punches that land below the belt. This protector has been tried out and has satisfied the commission of its efficacy.

If, therefore, either fighter should floor the other or momentarily incapacitate him by striking below the legal line, the striking boxer would suffer the loss of the round. Under the rules today, Schmeling would have been counted out on the floor, in 1930, and Sharkey would have been champion.

Referee Has Not Been Named. The referee, of course, has not been announced. Whoever he is, nobody will say him for Sharkey on several occasions, has grievously embarrassed the third man in the ring. One of them was put in "dutch" to such an extent that he has not been allowed to officiate since.

The fight probably will not run over $40,000 in gate receipts, that being almost the capacity of the new bowl at present prices, although it has a seating capacity of 71,530. More than 50,000 seats under $5 explains the low total.

Jimmy Johnston, the spark plug of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, who undertook to fill Tex Rickard's shoes in depression years, predicts a $400,000 total. But the ease with which ringside passes can be obtained indicates that there will be plenty of high-price seats occupied by unprofitable tenants.

Another indication of a low attendance is found in the small number of "war correspondents" on the battle front. This writer and Warren Brown of Chicago were the only ones yesterday to be the only fight writers west of the Alleghenies to have checked in, up to last night.

Both Have Been Stopped. Both fighters have been knocked out. Schmeling was stopped by Gypsy Danies, Max Dickman and Larry Gains, the Negro who out-punited Primo Carnera in London. Sharkey was knocked out twice, by Rojas and by Jack Dempsey.

Sharkey is estimated to be worth more than half a million dollars. His best individual share of any one fight was $211,000 from the bout with Dempsey. He received $177,000 for his last fight with Schmeling, although the commission rules declared that he should have been paid only four-fifths of this sum, the number of rounds the fight actually lasted, under a foul termination. The last time they fought for the title, Schmeling and Sharkey drew $775,000.

Joe Jacobs has a large ambition. "After we lick Sharkey," said Joe yesterday, "we may go over to London and knock out the British Empire champion, the Negro, Larry Gains, after that we may take on Walker and Carnera."

Large talk from the manager of a fighter who has fought only once each year, since he became champion and who sidestepped matches with Sharkey, Carnera and Walker in between times.

Sharkey's opponents say that he has no punch and that the only men of note whom he stopped, Maloney, Delaney, Loughran, and Willis were either glass jawed, ancient, or weaklings. Schmeling stopped Risko and Stribling. The former beat Sharkey and the latter extended Jack to the limit.

The hotels here are wide open spaces. In the days of real fights you had to have a hotel clerk friend or a big bank roll to get a desirable room.

SHARKEY WEIGHS 205 AND TITLEHOLDER 188 Continued From Page One. physician, examined both men and said they were in excellent physical condition. Schmeling was the more nervous of the two, he said, with a heart beat of 75 as against 70 for Sharkey. Their blood pressure was normal. Their physical condition was the exact opposite of that expected. Heretofore Schmeling has always been as calm as a burgomaster out for a stroll while Sharkey always has been on edge. Several construed the evidence as indicating Schmeling might be a trifle over-trained.

SEE our old friend, Sunny Jim, whose batting eye grew somewhat dim. With the elite will mingle. To show that he could make the grade. On Sunday in New York he made two homers and a single.

When Collins fell into a slump, Old Sunny Jim began to bump the pellet while pinch hitting. So Jim and "Ripper" traded shoes. Which reads like very pleasant news.

From where we now are sitting. When Sunny's lamps are in good trim. There are but few compare with him.

At knocking pellets whizzin'. And so, on first, he'll now remain Till Ripper finds his eye again. Or Jimmy loses his'n.

The Brownies, who've been going strong. Before a large and noble throng. Displayed their wares on Sunday. With Connie's A's they split a pair. Which we maintain is passing fair. And good enough for one day.

The fans were not surprised a bit To hear that Shane Collins quit As pilot of the Red Sox. The team was deeply in the red And kept on sinking by the head As though they all were lead Sox.

Why Not? It was only logical for the Red Sox to change pilots. When a team is going nowhere, a pilot is only excess baggage.

As the season progresses it seems that what the Red Sox need more than a pilot is a parachute. With Marty McManus combining the offices of pilot and second baseman, the well-known budget gets a break.

Due to the fact that "Lefty" Grove was nursing a bad ankle and a winning streak, he thought it wise not to go in against the Browns this trip. Maybe "Lefty" remembers what the Browns did to his winning streak last summer when he was hitting on both ankles.

Not that it is necessary for Moses to detour the tough spots. "Lefty" is too good a pitcher for that. Not to be outdone by the Republics, who made James R. Garfield, son of former President Garfield, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, the Democrats will hear Richard F. Cleveland, son of former President Cleveland, in a second speech. We hope that Dick has a more pleasant experience than Jim.

Blocks and Chips. FORMER Presidents remind us We can be outstarring men. And departing, leave behind us Sons in whom we'll live again. Prosperity hasn't turned the corner yet, but Charlie Chaplin is back and that ought to help some.

BURKE GETS 74 IN PRACTICE FOR OPEN GOLF MEET

FLUSHING, N. Y., June 21.—Professional and amateur golfers swarmed over the French Meadow Country Club course yesterday, preparing for the opening of the national open championship Thursday. Johnny Goodman, who eliminated Bobby Jones in the first round of the 1929 amateur championship, turned in the best practice round of the amateurs, turning in an 18-hole card of 72, two strokes over par.

Among the professionals, Wiffy Cox, Herman Barron, Willie Klein and Mortie Dutra of California turned in the best scores, each carding a 72. Henry Clucci, the home professional, went around in 73. Phil Perkins, former British amateur title holder; Billy Burke, the defending champion; Al Watrous, Denny Shute and Willie MacFarlane turned in cards of 74 after experimenting with their shots.

American players. He played impressively and showed improvement in his singles play over previous appearances at Wimbledon. Although the Welshman, Tackett, carried Allison to five sets, the Texan gave the impression of having the match all under control and merely prolonging the match for practice.

Jean Borotra, who is just recovering from influenza and was almost eliminated in the first round yesterday by Andre Merin, young French player, came back to win, from C. N. O. Ritchie, 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, in the second round. Sidney B. Wood joined the American advance, winning his second-round match with I. H. Wheatcroft of England, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

Gregory Mangin advanced to the third round, defeating C. Sproule of Australia, 6-2, 6-2, 9-7. The victory gave the American men players a clean sweep in the day's play.

Henri Cochet, French ace and favorite to win the singles title, was eliminated in the second round, falling before the flashy playing of the lanky Englishman, Ian G. Collins. The score was 6-2, 8-6, 6-4, 6-5.

Cochet's defeat was the second successive year the French ace has been eliminated early in the tournament. Last year he was defeated in straight sets in the first round by a comparative "unknown," N. Sharpe. The downfall of Cochet was the only upset in the day's play.

Mrs. Moody Is Victor. Mrs. Helen Willis Moody won her opening match from Pauline M. R. Couquerque of Holland, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Helen Jacobs, second ranked woman player in the United States, won her opening match, defeating Miss Southwell, 6-1, 6-1.

Mrs. Lawrence Harper was the only one of the American stars to lose. She defeated Vines in the London championships last week, defeated Maitrey, 6-1, 6-1, and again will meet the American champion in the third round.

SEEKS PERMIT TO EXTEND NATURAL BRIDGE BUS LINE

Public Service Co. Makes Application in Connection With Abandonment of Car Route.

Application has been filed with the Board of Public Service by the Public Service Co. to extend its Natural Bridge bus line east from Kingshighway to Grand boulevard. The Natural Bridge car line, now terminating at Kingshighway, is to be abandoned west of Grand after the widening of Natural Bridge avenue.

While Natural Bridge is being widened between Kingshighway and Fair avenue the busses would detour over Lexington avenue and Palm street, a block to the south. The company announced it would add new 40-passenger busses, like those on its Vandeventer line, for the service. The Natural Bridge bus line now follows Natural Bridge, Jennings, Helen and West Florissant avenues, by way of Pine Lawn and West Walnut Manor, to the terminus of the Bellefontaine trolley line at Robin and West Florissant avenue.

The company plans eventually to extend the Natural Bridge bus route from Grand to the downtown district, with a complete outfit of 40-passenger vehicles. Several factors are delaying the start of this.

JUNTA IN CHILE PROMISES GUARD FOR U. S. CITIZENS

Davila Government Replies to Ambassador, Who Called for Protection at Guggenheim Mines.

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, June 21.—Reports from Valparaiso today said five persons had been killed in street clashes between Communists trying to start a general strike and soldiers and sailors. The sailors came from destroyers of the battle squadron anchored in Valparaiso harbor. They entered the town during the night to help preserve order.

After several street clashes it was reported the strike efforts had not succeeded as yet.

Reports that 25 persons had been killed in rioting here (in Santiago) were without confirmation after careful investigation. Many were injured, however, in street clashes.

The junta of Carlos Davila today promised protection to American lives and property in response to a request from United States Ambassador William S. Culbertson. Culbertson, expressing the fear that American lives might be endangered by anti-foreign reaction, especially specified the Rancagua area, 50 miles to the south, in which are the $100,000,000 Braden mines, owned by the Guggenheims.

Culbertson said the copper company at Teniente had informed him that street fighting had occurred and expressed the opinion that local authorities could not handle a serious outbreak.

With its promise of protection, the junta asked the company to aid in eliminating radicals. A representative of the Braden mines today expressed satisfaction with the Government's action.

Meanwhile, the situation here and at Valparaiso grew more tranquil and the American Embassy noted the complete absence of any reports of disorders from various consuls.

The junta indicated it probably would issue a new decree today imposing extreme penalties on communist activity or propaganda.

A slight earthquake jarred the city this afternoon without any damage.

Although martial law was proclaimed by the new Government last night because, it was explained, "anarchy created by the former Government" was exercising an "unsettling influence," Santiago was quiet. The "former Government" referred to apparently was that of Col. Marmaduke Grove.

MILITARY ZONE EXTENDED IN OKLAHOMA OIL FIELDS
Gov. Murray Includes Storage Tanks and Pipe Lines; Creates Proration Board of Five.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21.—Gov. Murray took Oklahoma's oil proration into his own hands today, extending a military law zone to include storage tanks and pipe lines and creating a proration board of five members.

Murray, who last summer closed down thousands of oil wells under martial law to bring the price of crude oil up, ordered out 30 National Guardsmen today to enforce his new order. He asserted orders of the State Corporation Commission, normal arbiters of proration, are being violated and that oil was being illegally run at night from leases in the Oklahoma City field. The guardsmen will be on 24-hour patrol duty under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Cicero I. Murray, the Governor's cousin.

Murray's proration board will hold hearings to fix production allowable but all orders will be subject to the Governor's approval.

The martial law zone as regards wells has been in effect since Murray first called out guardsmen last summer, but the shutdown was lifted two months later and only a skeleton detail of troops has been maintained in the Oklahoma City field.

KILLED WITH POCKET KNIFE
Farmer, Who Attacks Brothers With a Stone, Stabbed to Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ELDON, Mo., June 21.—R. H. McDonald, 50 years old, was stabbed to death with a pocket-knife by Jeff Simmons, 54, who alleges McDonald attacked him with a large stone. Those involved in the fight are bachelors, living on adjoining farms near Eldon, Mo. The killing was the result of an old quarrel.

Jeff Simmons says that he and his brother, Henry, 50 years old, were at work in a field when McDonald came up, shouted: "I'll kill you," and struck him with a stone. Henry, a small man, came to his brother's defense, and was knocked unconscious by a blow with the stone. Jeff thereupon opened his pocketknife and stabbed McDonald to death. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of "killing in self defense."

Bystander Killed in Pistol Fight.
SHAWNEE, Ok., June 21.—A fight on a residential street early today resulted in the death of a citizen and the wounding of a policeman. A suspected thief fled. Four hours later a man who said he was C. C. Patterson of Seminole was arrested. He denied knowledge of the shooting. Officers said they took a pistol from him. Sam A. Miller, 40 years old, was killed by a stray bullet. W. M. Jones, policeman, was shot in his right lung and left wrist.

DIES AFTER STRIKING HEAD ON ROCK WHEN DIVING

Edward Kuhn, 26-year-old clerk for the Wabash Railroad, died at Des Moines Hospital today of a fractured skull and neck suffered on Sunday afternoon when he dived into shallow water in the Meramec River at Bald Pate, St. Louis County.

Kuhn, who lived at 3059 McNair avenue, was spending the week-end at a clubhouse belonging to a brother of his fiancée, Miss Lillian Miller, 2211 Arsenal street, also a member of the party. He dived from a board four feet above the water into a depth of about four and a half feet, striking his head on a rock.

Other members of the party took him from the river. He was paralyzed from his shoulders down. He was taken to the hospital immediately. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Kuhn, with whom he lived, and a sister.

TEXAS DRY AGENT AT MURDER TRIAL PLEADS SELF-DEFENSE

Widow of Storekeeper Testifies Defendant and Another Officer Were the Aggressors.

By the Associated Press.
DALLAS, Tex., June 21.—On trial charged with murder, L. C. Smith, one of two suspended Federal prohibition agents, has testified he fired in self-defense. In Federal Court yesterday the agent said he shot and killed F. M. McGlothlin, country storekeeper, only after the latter had fired at him with a shotgun.

Mrs. McGlothlin, who was wounded at the time her husband was slain, testified Smith and N. D. Heaton, the other agent on trial, were the aggressors.

The shooting was on the night of April 3 when the agents sought to arrest a suspected bootlegger with whom they had made a rendezvous at McGlothlin's store. The storekeeper and his wife thought the agents were robbers.

SENATE VOTING ON PROVISIONS OF RELIEF BILL

Preference on Labor Subjects Proposed in Measure Given to Ex-Service Men With Dependents.

TEST IS NEAR ON PUBLIC WORKS BONDS

La Follette Would Amount Five Billion; Administration Opposes Amount.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 21.—A vision that preference be given ex-service men with dependent families in the Wagner Derivative unemployment relief bill was adopted today by the Senate without a dissenting voice. The amendment was proposed by Senator Tydings (Dem.), Maryland. Leaders are pushing hard disposition of the bill today, in effort to reach adjournment Sunday.

The first major vote is expected to come on the La Follette amendment to increase the $500,000,000 public works bond issue to $5,000,000,000. Sponsors of the measure predict its defeat.

The most bitter fight is expected to come on the provision for a bonus for the entire burden of relief thrown upon the Senate. Speaker Garner said the House would not consider the $100,000,000 bill for loans to states, the other House has acted on measure. He said he understood the latter measure would be deferred as an amendment to measure now pending in the House so that all the relief could go to conference today.

Oklahoma Gets $100,000,000
An amendment by Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, adopted under which $100,000,000 of the federal public works bill would be used for bridges at the Platt National Park in Oklahoma.

On motion of Senator C. (Rep.), Michigan, the Senate voted that self-liquidating public works would be made states and their sub-divisions be subject to state or local taxation as to service and rates.

The Senate rejected, 52 to 40, an amendment proposed by Senator Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, to limit Reconstruction Corporation loans to companies for oil pipe construction. Hayden contended pipe lines belonged in the public domain, viaducts and trestles.

Regional Farm Credit
The Senate adopted an amendment by Senators Steiwer (Oregon) and Carey (Rep.), coming, authorizing the Reconstruction Corporation to create regional land bank districts which would be regional credit corporations with at least $2,000,000 paid up capital. The capital would be subordinated to the amounts allocated under the Reconstruction Corporation act.

The credit corporations were empowered to lend to farmers stock men for agriculture stock raising and rediscout the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Federal Reserve and Intermediate Banks any they might acquire eligible for purpose.

Minor Amendments Proposed Acted Upon Yesterday.

The Senate acted yesterday on a number of minor amendments.

The Senate is approaching vote on the $500,000,000 public works bond issue section $2,000,000,000 measure.

Senator Harrison (Dem.), Michigan, proposed an amendment permit loans up to an aggregate $200,000,000 to states on bonds for educational and highway, but later withdrew the proposal, intending to re-submit another point in the measure.

Senator Tydings submitted an amendment to legalize and tax at 24 cents a gallon, which, if passed, would raise up to $100,000,000 for financing reconstruction projects and with years would repay the $1,000,000,000 in Reconstruction bonds.

On motion of Senator V. (Dem.), Montana, the Senate gave a provision for loans to public agencies. Wheeler that, under the interpretation of the courts, the inclusion of language would permit local public utilities.

Montana Senator's Proposed Amendment.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, submitted an amendment permit loans to be made to cooperative finance institutions to the marketing of staple commodities produced in the United States.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Pithecanthrop and Mr. Hrdlicka.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WILLIAM H. LUKES letter gives the impression that Mr. Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian is a mere hanger-on of the scientific camp and not worthy of the title of scientist. Has Mr. Luke any Hrdlicka's technical book, "The Skeletal Remains of Early Man"? If he has, he should know that the author has personally examined not only all the principal remains that have been attributed to early man, but has inspected the sites of their discovery as well.

In that book, after a discussion concerning differences of opinion among experts regarding the status of the pithecanthrop remains, he gives his opinion as: "With all this, it could not be legitimate to assert that the pithecanthrop was either a form of early man or one that eventually evolved into man. Either of these conclusions would demand decisive supporting material, which does not exist." The most that appears justifiable, until further conclusive evidence appears, is to regard the pithecanthrop, as represented by the skullcap, to have been a high primate of as yet uncertain ancestry and no known progeny, far advanced in what may be termed a humanoid direction.

In regard to opportunities to examine the fragments of pithecanthrop, he says: "In the summer of 1922 I visited Europe and was invited by Dr. Dubois most courteously to the Teyler Museum in Haarlem. This great privilege was taken advantage of by me and my class on July 15. It was the first time the specimens had been shown to a scientific man after their long seclusion. We found Dr. Dubois a big-bodied and big-hearted man, who received us with cordial simplicity. He had all the specimens in his possession brought out from the strong boxes in which they are kept, demonstrated them to us personally, and permitted me to handle them to my satisfaction. Later the same summer the specimens were also shown to Prof. McGregor. Since then they have been demonstrated a number of occasions, including that of the XXI International Congress of Americanists at The Hague, 1924."

ROBERT KLAUS.

A Refuge for Unemployed Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THERE is pressing need for shelter, one plain but decent meal a day, and means for cleanliness of person and clothing for women, particularly those 40 and over. Women past 40, educated, experienced, capable, have little chance of getting work. Savings are exhausted, relations are bad, pressed, the most specimens in his possession brought out from the strong boxes in which they are kept, demonstrated them to us personally, and permitted me to handle them to my satisfaction. Later the same summer the specimens were also shown to Prof. McGregor. Since then they have been demonstrated a number of occasions, including that of the XXI International Congress of Americanists at The Hague, 1924."

ONE OF THEM.

Defends Individual Case System.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"PHYSICIAN" advocates public dining halls for feeding and vaccinating the homeless. He also advocates the elimination of all "investigation" and with it, all personal service other than the serving of food and, I presume, the assignment of sleeping quarters.

The St. Louis plan of using trained social service personnel, so that relief may be given in the home, goes far beyond investigation. This home service not only was more expensive, but it brings the community's help in the greatly increased health and personal problems of the unemployed.

Mass feeding and mass housing and the elimination of the personal service referred to by "Physician" as "investigation," as a relief plan, is not new. It has been tried in various communities throughout the country recently, and also in earlier times. Always it has proved to be many times more expensive than the plan now being followed in St. Louis. The Russell Sage Foundation studies leave no doubt as to the economy of the individual case system, as it is followed in St. Louis, over against the indiscriminate mass system advocated by "Physician."

E. G. STEGER,
Director Relief and Employment.

Would Let G. O. P. Manage the Universe.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HAVING noted Chairman Snell's declaration that "everywhere, the decline of the Republican party, is confusion and chaos," I think we ought to exert the Almighty to turn the management of the universe and heaven over to our Republican brethren. Such infinite perfection should not be restricted to these United States.

MORTAL.

Bennett Clark's Campaign.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM an old man in my eighty-second year, and read Grover Clark's letter in your paper of the 17th inst., and endorse everything he said about Bennett Clark. He (Clark) was in our town recently and made a speech. Well, it cheered me up. Reminded me of my younger days when candidates were honest, and there was no straddling issues; it was like listening to his father.

Now, I don't know much about Mr. Howell, but I think it was a bad mistake of Mr. Pendergast to bring politics into after so worthy a man as Mr. Clark had announced his candidacy, which may cause both of them to be beaten.

THE FIGHT FOR REPEAL.

Having failed in the Republican convention, the fight for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment now goes before the Democratic convention.

It is reported from Chicago that the Roosevelt people will make the plank voted down by the Republican convention their own proposal in the Democratic convention.

If they do, they will precipitate one of the most picturesque fights ever seen in a national convention. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler says his plank, embodied in the Bingham resolution, would have won had the Republican convention been let alone. He adds:

We had 610 assured votes on Monday night. Estimates that we could muster 700 votes were made. In any event, we had a majority, and then the administration leader, taking orders from Washington, got busy.

They knew we had them beaten—that the convention, if unaffiliated by the White House, would go for repeal. They made inroads in Pennsylvania and Ohio and some in Massachusetts. They were successful in Southern delegations, where the delegates are readily reached by patronage considerations. Mississippi's delegation held out, but elsewhere they changed votes materially.

In effect, they said: "We expect to be in power, dispensing patronage for another four years. What jobs can these repeal fellows hand you?" And it worked.

Senator Borah agrees that the Republican plank is one of mere political expediency, and asserts that the convention was at heart for repeal. "There were in the convention 204 delegates from Democratic states which will not send Republican electors to the electoral college and more than 300 Federal officeholders," the Idaho Senator added.

The Democratic convention will be in much better case than that. It has its leadstrings, but they are nothing like those which enabled Mr. Hoover and his cabinet to keep the Republican convention from giving him a wet platform.

The Democrats also have their own weasels. There is, for instance, the Raskob plan, which was put before the Democratic National Committee almost a year ago and adopted by both Smith and Roosevelt.

It parallels closely the prohibition law adopted by the Republican convention. It would substitute for the eighteenth amendment another amendment excepting from the operation of the prohibition law any state which votes under the referendum to permit the manufacture and sale of liquor only by "state agencies"; that is the old, discredited state dispensary plan which disgraced the Carolinas.

The states should be free to do what they want to do, irrespective either of Congress or the Constitution. The honest and forthright thing for the Democrats to do is to stand for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, permitting the liquor question to go back to the states.

No ifs. No ands. No buts.

Anything else would have the defects of the Republican plank, which is obviously devised to catch both wet and dry votes. In the picturesque phrase of Dr. Butler, "It will send the party over the dam."

Will the Democrats also go over the dam? They are quite free, or should be quite free, to choose the nobler course.

Certainly they face one of the greatest opportunities in the history of the party.

They can, if they will, display courage where the Republicans have failed to do so.

The country is sick and tired of being dragged about behind the chariot of the Anti-Saloon League. It is disgusted with mere make-believe.

It wants to be free.

Patently, the Republicans do not believe they can carry the country without the aid of the dregs. All they did at Chicago was to turn themselves inside out.

They are being denounced for their failure to face the issue as no party has been denounced since the Democrats espoused the cause of silver.

They have set the stage for the Democrats.

Repeal the eighteenth amendment!

THIRTEEN IS HIS NUMBER.

When Alfonso XIII lost his job as King of Spain, most of us over here felt sorry for him. As kings go, he had been a good egg. Yet our emotion was necessarily academic. None of us had ever been a king, and we could, therefore, have no real understanding of just how one would feel, as it were, to be de-kinged. But the latest calamity to befall Alfonso is something a lot of us can understand and genuinely sympathize with. They have taken the chap's money, something like $3,000,000, and left him, so the papers say, practically flat. To be sure, few of us have lost $3,000,000, but to be "broke" is no rare experience in the American adventure, and never was, even in the eras of prosperity. And regardless of what the amount may be, millions, or thousands, or hundreds, when a man has lost all of it, why there he is, a full-fledged member of down-and-outdom, in the sullen democracy of which they are all brothers. There are flaws, of course, in this melancholy reasoning. Some there are whose heads, however bloody, are yet unbowed; congenial fighters who won't and can't be licked. But when one has had a throne pulled from under him and later wakes up to find he hasn't a centavo in his pocket—well, it looks like Hooverville for Alfonso.

THINKERS AND TRADERS.

Sunday was the day of baccalaureate addresses at Princeton, Yale and Harvard. Dr. John Grier Hibben, delivering his last address as president of Princeton, told his university's graduating class that the period of so-called prosperity was unsound structurally, not only with an inflation of material values, but also with an inflation of ambitions, desires and purposes. At New Haven, President Angell urged the graduates of Yale to take an active part in bringing the world to realize the tremendous waste and utter futility of war. Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, the Harvard president, made the good point that, say what we will about the machine, present economic conditions are not due to sun spots or climate changes, but they follow human conduct, and hence are under human control.

These thoughts synthesized comprise a program for 1932. A new set of standards must be formulated whereby greed in whatever form will be recognized in its true light. This code must be followed by those of high estate as well as low. Under these standards, the folly of war and the upkeep of a world war machine will have no place. Instead, groups and peoples will help one another through international co-operation and amity and unhampered dealings. Recognizing that man has brought civilization to its present level, it is no longer in order to declare this goal cannot be reached. If man built, he can rebuild.

These are the thoughts of thinkers, the men the world turned its back on to follow the traders. To forsake our mistaken guide is the first step to recovery.

WHILE ROME BURNS.

George W. Wickersham, as president of the League of Nations Association, has undertaken the task of persuading Congress to the immediate necessity of a world economic conference to consider war debts, reparations and tariffs as problems underlying the business depression for which a practical solution must be found. His first step has been to procure expressions from leaders of industry, finance and education. More than 30 replies have been received, with, with two exceptions, approve the proposal. Most of the respondents urge the recommended action as vitally necessary.

The Wickersham procedure, it is explained, will presently interrogate citizens of importance in their respective communities. When the canvass is completed, it is hoped to file such a body of public opinion as will influence Congress to authorize the President to initiate the negotiations for the conference.

The complaint might logically and fairly be entered that Mr. Wickersham and the industrial and financial captains are belatedly engaging in a work that should long ago have moved them to petition, or remonstrance, or both. It is a matter of accusing record, for example, that when the specialized knowledge of the country, in the memorial from "the thousand economists," besought Mr. Hoover to veto the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, our great industrialists and financiers were mostly silent.

Nor has there ever been any sincere, aggressive protest from those high circles to the persistent determination of the Government at Washington to regard reparations and war debts as separate and distinct, the former a European question in which we have no interest, the latter an item of conventional business obligation. That position was untenable, and the policy derived from it has been found to be impracticable. But the position and the policy will have to be abandoned, with or without the mobilization of public opinion such as the Wickersham plan contemplates.

The Lausanne conference, now in session, is a testimonial to the impossibility of our attitude toward reparations and debts. That conference, called to find some adjustment of the reparations difficulty, is stymied by our refusal to participate in it or to indicate what we might do as regards the debts if an agreement as to the reparations were reached. Lausanne, apparently, is doomed to failure, for which we are in large measure responsible.

Meantime, Rome is burning. How long our Government will, as a spectator, watch the conflagration in which we are ourselves being consumed, is a question. But self-preservation will presently compel the administration and Congress to face the searing realities; to bow to the fact that we are a part of the world; that the nations will either swim together or sink together; that a live-and-let-live program is the one escape from destruction.

If Mr. Wickersham and those associated with him can hasten the day of delivery, well and good.

RIGHTING A WRONG.

Senator Norris is trying to rectify the injustice to electric power consumers in the new tax bill by which they, and not the power companies, must pay a 3 per cent tax on power consumed. That was a dark lantern deal, made in the conference on the tax bill, after the Senate had expressly stipulated that the burden should fall on the power companies.

It was an outrageous performance on the part of the conferees. For the most part, the public is paying electric rates based on the high valuations of the boom period. It is the power companies' good fortune that they are among the few industries that have suffered least in the depression. They can well afford to absorb the tax, and they should be compelled to do so.

We trust Congress will avail itself of the opportunity to correct the error of the conferees by passing Norris' amendment.

A PLAN TO REDUCE GARBAGE COSTS.

With the idea of saving money for the city, Mayor Miller and Comptroller Nolte favor turning over the job of garbage collection to a private contractor, and the Board of Public Service has approved a proposed ordinance authorizing the taking of bids. The nature of these bids and the character of the persons making them are all-important. If some responsible and experienced contractor is willing to meet the terms of the city and do the work at less cost than it requires under the present system, then there can be no objection.

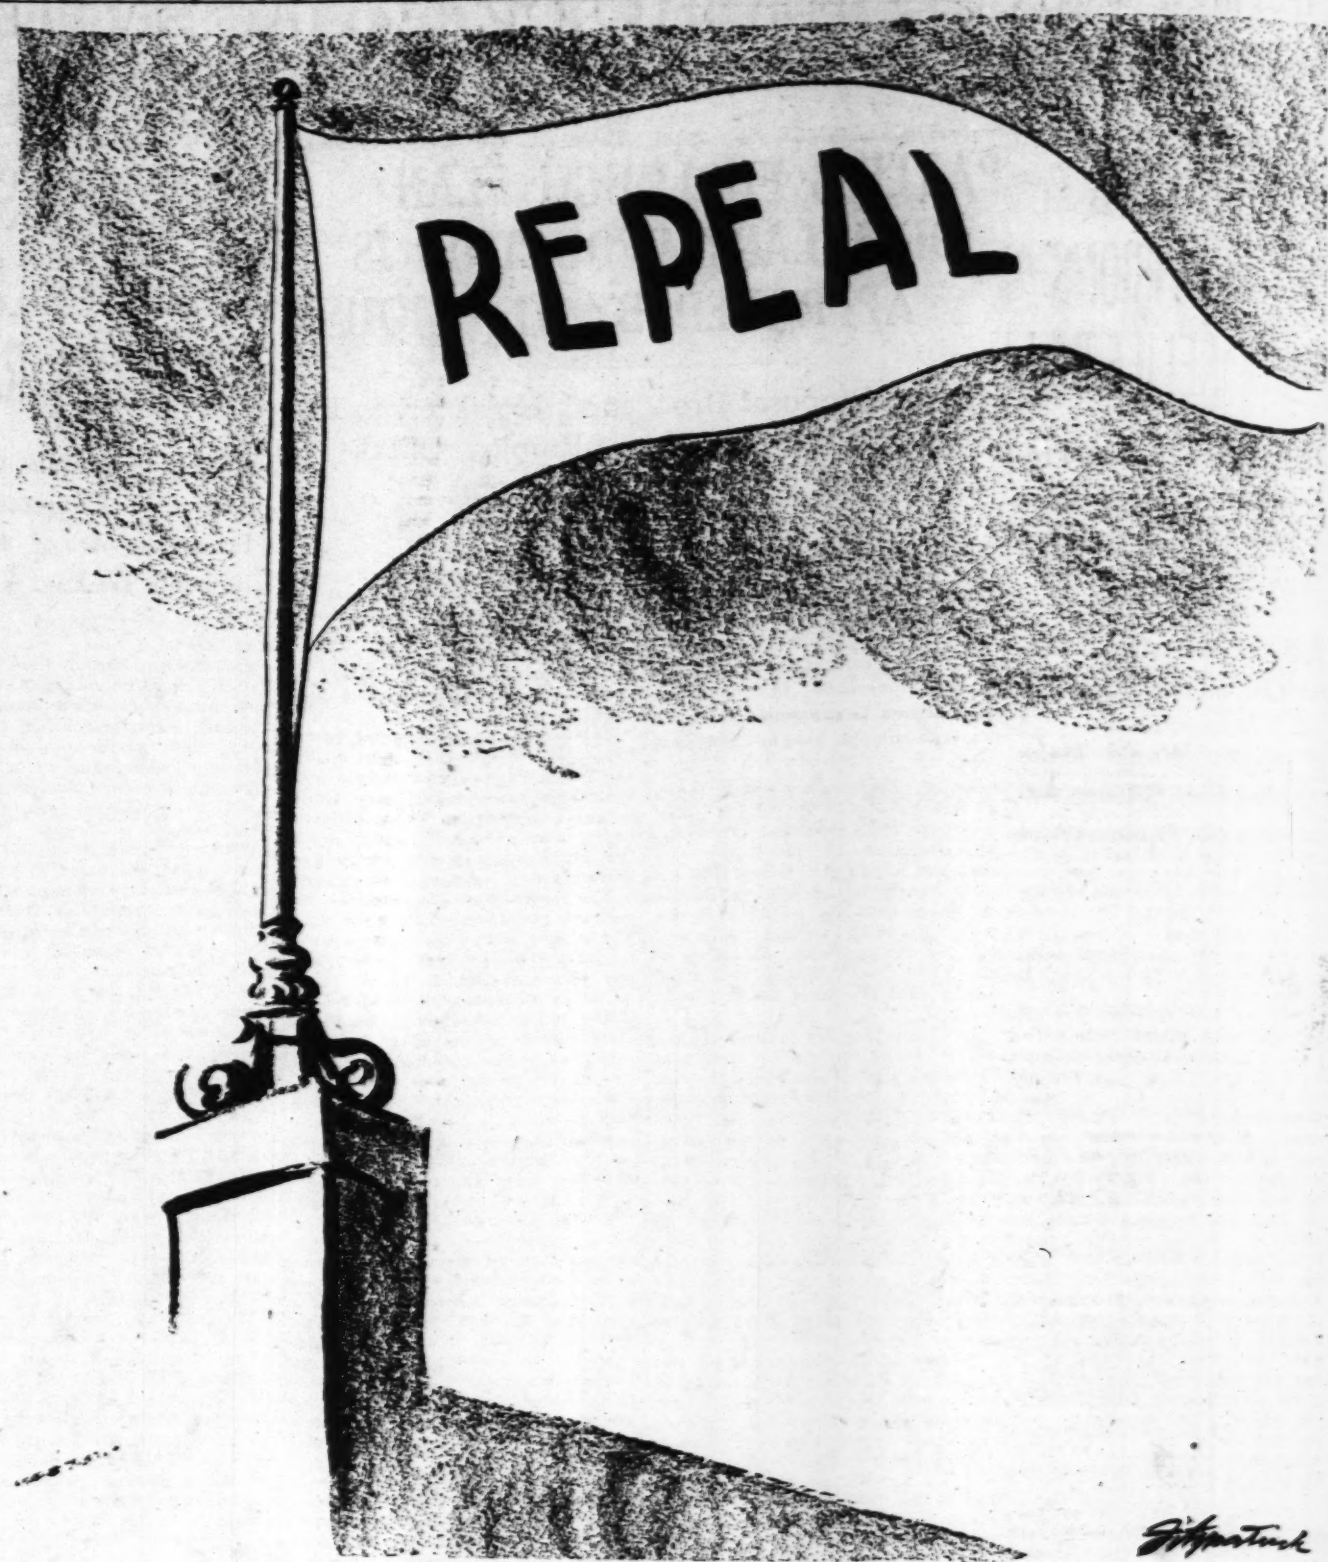

In fact, the plan offers the opportunity of instituting a much-needed reform, namely, the installation of the truck-and-trailer system. Garbage is now collected in mule-drawn wagons, an antiquated, unsightly and expensive method. The cost of modern equipment has been the stumbling block, though the Bureau of Municipal Research has claimed that by using tractors and trailers, the city could reduce collection costs $50,000 annually. They now average about $300,000 annually.

For a variety of reasons, the plan has not been put into effect, the main one being the large capital expenditure necessary to acquire the automotive equipment and to reconstruct the Chouteau dock. Permission for the latter, for a time refused by the Government, has been given. It would cost $100,000, according to the city's estimate made some time ago, but the decline in labor and material costs in the last two years would undoubtedly reduce this figure.

Under the Miller-Nolte proposal, the contractor would have to finance the dock reconstruction, and likewise provide motorized equipment. This being true, naturally, the term of the contract would have to be at least five years to permit him to make a return on his investment. At the end of that time, if the system proved unsatisfactory, the city should be enabled to acquire it at a fair valuation.

Since garbage collection is a vital function, some misgivings may accompany awarding it to private business. Those, however, can be quieted by care in placing the bid and utmost vigilance in preparation of the terms of the contract. If a saving of $50,000 to $60,000 a year can be made, as the Mayor calculates, the idea is certainly worthy of most earnest consideration.

The water wagon is no longer the bandwagon.

THE DEMOCRATIC OPPORTUNITY.

Tragedy of the Republican Convention

Victory at polls, not triumph of ideals, was goal of machine-controlled G. O. P. convention, writes St. Louisian who was chaplain at one session; sole motive was to continue profits and powers of office-holders; decries inconsistency of delegates who voted against majority prohibition plank and for Hoover, though he was its sponsor.

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman of Temple Israel, St. Louis.

WHATEVER differences of opinion there may be about the Republican convention, all observers are agreed that it was well managed and well conducted, and that in all its work there was evident the strategy which a small group in control imposed upon an assemblage willing to be disciplined. Even the debate on the liquor plank was part of the three-day plan. It was reserved for the only evening session when galleries were certain to be packed and the enthusiasm otherwise lacking or else synthetically devised would be forthcoming. It was staged so that delegates from wet states could express themselves and thus save their faces before their constituents.

If the prohibition issue was as vital as the wet debaters from Senator Bingham down stated, why did these wet delegations almost unanimously cast their votes for Hoover, who admittedly was the author of the majority plank? Why did these delegates not organize behind another wet leader or even make the attempt to organize, or else withdraw from the convention? Nicholas Murray Butler did. To him prohibition was such a vital issue that he could not support a candidate for the presidency who hemmed and hawed about it. He did the honorable, dignified thing by withdrawing from the delegation and letting his alternate vote for him. Four hundred and seventy other delegates voted wet, yet supported the administration. Their action is difficult to justify. The administration leaders in control of the convention, it seems, allowed the wet delegates to blow off steam, so that they can say to the folks back home, "We tried, but failed."

The convention was managed by a machine. Nor is such management undesirable. If there were no organization which thought and planned in advance for such a convention, it would accomplish nothing. Twelve hundred delegates are a mob, and mobs entrusted with responsible work may become very dangerous. They can be easily stampeded.

When the nominations for the Vice-Presidency were on, I noted with what enthusiasm the name of any soldier was received. It would not have been difficult for a gifted orator to have stamped the crowd to select a war veteran for the Vice-Presidency merely because he was a war veteran, irrespective of other qualifications or lack of them. It would be extremely hazardous for our nation to let the selection of its highest officers who have tremendous power—such power as no other ruler of a democratic state possesses—be made at the whim or caprice of a mob. It seems, therefore, that a machine or organization is necessary.

To most Americans, the words political machine stir up bad memories. Thoughts of Tweed and Tammany, Penrose and Harding, are immediately suggested. America's experience with political machines has been tragic. But a machine itself need not be rotten. The difficulty has been that political machines are not organized around great causes. They have been organized to keep groups in office. These groups have no ideal. They have a program—that is, to profit at the expense of the state, through office-holding or through other forms of patronage. The government of a nation of 120,000,000 of people is a big business, and political machines live and have their being in the profits and jobs of that business.

That is my objection to the clique which engineered the program at the Chicago convention. The gang had one purpose. That was to retain its power. It seemed to have no convictions which it was not prepared to sacrifice. It was opportunistic. It was interested in getting votes to remain in office. It seemed to be spurred on by no great social passion, by no consecrated patriotism, by no love for humanity. It had one goal—re-election. Whatever has to be done for re-election, that must be done. Principles, convictions, ideals be damned. These are all right for preachers, for the great social passion, by no consecrated patriotism, by no love for humanity. It had one goal—re-election. # "LAST WALTZ" SNAPPY MUSI-COMEDY AFFAIR

Harry K. Morton, in Low Comic Role Runs Away With Third Municipal Opera Show.

THE LAST WALTZ, an operetta by Oscar Straus with American book by Harold Atteridge and E. D. Dunn from the original, presented by the Municipal Opera Company in Forest Park, opened last night with the following cast:

General H. H. Niemeyer..... Herbert Weber
Mrs. H. H. Niemeyer..... Clara Garfield
Leonard Cooley..... Guy Peterson
Miss Katherine Dreher..... Charlotte Lanine
Barbara Newberry..... Marie Warner
Harry K. Morton..... Victor Gamore
James Paul..... Virginia Watson
James Paul..... Leonard Cooley

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

AFTER a week of just-so-enough excitement, the Municipal Opera cast found itself again last night in the third production of the season, "The Last Waltz," called an operetta by Oscar Straus, but really a typical American musical comedy built around Straus' pretty music with some catchy added tunes by composers on this side of the Atlantic. The piece was getting its first production in Forest Park last evening. Seen here some ten years ago at the old St. Louis Jefferson Theater, it has been on the shelf ever since until the directors of the Municipal organization decided to revive it for the current week's bill.

The idea was an excellent one for "The Last Waltz," while not a play to set audiences to thinking, it is bright and snappy fun and fine entertainment for a warm summer's evening. Probably the original Viennese version was a more serious affair, but the book, provided for this country by Harold Atteridge and E. D. Dunn—Mr. Dunn was in the audience last night by the way—leans heavily on the comedy side which gives the very funny comedian, Harry K. Morton, a chance to display all of his wares, a chance which he accepted to such an extent last night that from the time of his first entrance until the very end of the performance, he completely ran away with the show and buried the romance under a continuous wave of laughter.

Up to Date Book.

Very properly the book has been freshened and the comedy lines brought right up to date with current allusions to topics of the times. The romantic side of the story remains about as it was, with the plot concerning the love affair of an American Naval Lieutenant and a Russian Countess in the mythical Kingdom of Vandalla, where the young officer happens to be at the moment. Guy Robertson is the sailor boy and Miss Lansing the Countess. The pair make love, very prettily, in three-four time. The Lieutenant first rescues the Countess from the attentions of Vandalla's reigning Prince and then, in turn, is rescued by the lady. The indignant ruler wants to have him shot at sunrise. That, in a typical musical comedy sort of way, is the story, but there are several side issues which go to make up the three acts. The naval officer has an orderly, one Mat Malby, played by Morton, who has his love affairs, comic ones, of course, and there is a corrupt and comic Countess in the hands of Rose Emerson and Hugh Cameron who play laughs playing a comic musical comedy General who drifts out of the picture after the first act. Miss Lansing, returning to the cast after a week's rest, was in the voice last night, and

Very properly the book has been freshened and the comedy lines brought right up to date with current allusions to topics of the times. The romantic side of the story remains about as it was, with the plot concerning the love affair of an American Naval Lieutenant and a Russian Countess in the mythical Kingdom of Vandalla, where the young officer happens to be at the moment. Guy Robertson is the sailor boy and Miss Lansing the Countess. The pair make love, very prettily, in three-four time. The Lieutenant first rescues the Countess from the attentions of Vandalla's reigning Prince and then, in turn, is rescued by the lady. The indignant ruler wants to have him shot at sunrise. That, in a typical musical comedy sort of way, is the story, but there are several side issues which go to make up the three acts. The naval officer has an orderly, one Mat Malby, played by Morton, who has his love affairs, comic ones, of course, and there is a corrupt and comic Countess in the hands of Rose Emerson and Hugh Cameron who play laughs playing a comic musical comedy General who drifts out of the picture after the first act. Miss Lansing, returning to the cast after a week's rest, was in the voice last night, and

MISS KATHERINE DREHER.

DAUGHTER OF Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dreher, of Webster Groves, who has gone to Baltimore, Md., to visit relatives and friends for several weeks.

Leonard Cooley, as the tyrannical Regent of Vandalla, who does not appear until the play is two-thirds over, sang and acted with authority when he was finally given the opportunity.

Miss Newberry Dances.

Barbara Newberry also made a belated appearance in a rather small role, but attracted both with Morton and with Carl Randall in the second and third acts was one of the high spots of the evening.

Once more, too, the St. Louis chorus played a big part in making the entertainment a success, and Watson Barrett's scenic designs were among the prettiest the Forest Park stage has seen.

Next Monday night the municipal organization will return to a tried and true old favorite in "Eloise Time," the lovely musical play written around the life of Franz Schubert and boasting two prima donnas in Miss Lansing and Miss d'Arle.

NO LOCAL CURES FOR WORLD'S ILLS, SAYS DR. BUTLER

...No nation, however great, however vast its resources, or however rich it may have been, can effect this cure by itself.

"It is highly significant," he said, "that in any land in which a general election is pending the politician in office appears to suffer from political paralysis."

"There is abroad in our modern democracies an infectious disease which may best be described as a general electionitis. It attacks both the seat of intelligence and the seat of courage. It thrives upon platitudes, the more sonorous the better, and upon rhetorical expressions of truths so old and so universal that one must wonder why they are repeated."

"There is but one cure for candidatus; that is when the sufferer from it is sternly and severely rebuffed by public opinion."

The Statesman Leads.

"The statesman leads where the politician tries to follow. The politician builds where the statesman tries to till the soil so as to avoid giving offense. Would to God we could exchange a thousand politicians for even one statesman."

Asserting that "this is a surplus crisis, not a deficit," Dr. Virgil Jordan, economist of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., pleaded for a concentrated effort to speed up consumption.

"The job that confronts every intelligent and alive American today," he said, "is the job of selling the United States back to the American people as a paying proposition."

Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the Advertising Federation, in the opening address warned against abuses still prevalent in advertising. Improvement, he said, ought not to obscure the fact that there still is misleading "copy," and that the public is educated to reject it as such.

A specific recommendation that the Congress or the President appoint a "National Council of Leadership" was put forward by Lee H. Bristol, president of the Association of National Advertisers.

Kenneth M. Goode, author of "More Profits from Advertising," praised the newspaper as the least variable advertising medium.

Amelia Earhart, was present with her husband, George Palmer Putnam, publisher.

Osteopaths' President to Speak.

Dr. A. D. Becker, president of the American Osteopathic Association, will speak on "Classification of Common Nervous Diseases," at a joint meeting of the local association and the Ladies' Auxiliary at 7 o'clock this evening at the Town Club.

Dr. Becker is professor of clinical diagnosis at the Kirksville (Mo.) College of Osteopathy and Surgery. Mrs. Becker, who is national chairman of the Osteopathic Women's Auxiliaries, and Dr. Q. L. Drennon, St. Louis, president of the Missouri Osteopathic Association, will also speak.

Honorary Degrees at Dartmouth.

By the Associated Press. HANOVER, N. H., June 21.—Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, and Ray Lyman Wilbur, United States Secretary of the Interior and president of Stanford University, were among the 12 to receive honorary degrees at the one hundred and sixty-third commencement of Dartmouth College today. Wilbur and Ochs received degrees of doctor of laws. Other degrees conferred included: Doctor of letters, Walter Lippman, New York writer.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE wedding of Miss Martha Katherine Jesse, daughter of Mrs. Frank Russell Jesse, and Joseph Hulet Cooper of Schenectady, N. Y., son of Mrs. Joseph Quentin Cooper of Columbia, Mo., will take place tonight. The ceremony will be a candle-light service at 8:30 o'clock at the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Harold L. Reader of the Webster Groves Baptist Church officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white lace made on semi-princess lines, the full skirt forming a train. The veil of tulle was arranged with a cap trimmed with a band of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Virginia House, wore a frock of orchid chiffon made with a tight bodice and close-fitting sleeves. The skirt was close fitting to the knees and flaring to the ground. She carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Evelyn McLain and Miss Carolyn Exton, wore frocks of light green chiffon made like that of the maid of honor. They all wore large hats of hair braid to match their dresses, with bows of taffeta. The bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of deep pink roses.

Marguerite Suenders, the junior bridesmaid, wore a frock of jade green chiffon.

Victor Falkenhainer was best man for his brother. The groomsmen were Walter Frerck, John Miller and Carl Diemer, all fraternity brothers of Mr. Falkenhainer.

The ushers were Monroe Linde, brother of the bride; August Falkenhainer, William Seeger and Allen Miller, cousins of Mr. Falkenhainer.

A dinner for members of the wedding party and the two families was followed by an informal reception later in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Falkenhainer will be at home in their apartment at 5560 Clemens avenue upon their return from a honeymoon in the North.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mildred Diehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Diehl, 5564 Highland avenue, to Albert J. Ricklin. The news was told friends at a bridge party given June 12 by Mrs. Jean Mignolet at the Park Plaza.

Miss Ellen Dowling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Dowling, 5152 Vernon avenue, left Monday for Kansas City, to visit Miss Mary Frances Fries, her classmate at Maryville College.

Miss Ruth Kiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Kiel, 4176 Park avenue, was the guest of honor Saturday evening at a surprise party given at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. E. H. Kiel, 2916 Greer avenue.

Mrs. Max Hess of Hollywood, Cal., and her small daughter, Maude Louise, are spending several days as the guests of Miss Louise McGregor, 5633 Julian avenue, after a trip East. Mrs. Hess is the former Miss Peggy Hendricks of St. Louis.

Miss Celestine Cirode, 933 Hamilton avenue, has gone to New York to visit friends. She will be joined there next month by her mother, Mrs. L. C. Palmer Cirode, and will go with her to Canada to spend August.

Mrs. Daly Withdraws Objections.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 21.—The New York American says Mrs. Lela H. Daly, widow of Marcus Daly II, has withdrawn her objections to an accounting offered by executors of her husband's estate.

Mrs. Daly had protested, on her own behalf and as guardian of her son, payment of $150,000 counsel fees to Frank C. Laughlin, as excessive.

Bar Pays Honors TO JUDGE HOLTCAMP

Gives Him Reception on Fiftieth Anniversary of Admission to Practice.

Charles W. Holtcamp, Probate Judge for more than 25 years, was honored on the fiftieth anniversary of his admission to the Missouri bar yesterday with a reception given by the St. Louis Bar Association at the Missouri Athletic Association.

More than 1000 persons congratulated the Judge. With him in the receiving line were: William T. Jones, president of the St. Louis Bar Association; John S. Leahy, former president; Guy A. Thompson, president of the American Bar Association; J. D. Johnson, one of the oldest members of the St. Louis bar.

A testimonial book containing the signatures of about 1000 persons was presented to Judge Holtcamp by Jones. In accepting the testimonial, the jurist said: "I have never written a speech and have none now. I have tried for 50 years to uphold the honor of the legal profession and I've endeavored just as hard for 25 years to do my best in the office of Probate Judge."

"My father, a minister, consented when as a young man I expressed the desire to become an attorney, although he had had other plans for me. He made me promise two things, however. 'If you can't practice honestly,' he said, 'quit. And it makes no difference what success you attain, even if you become a judge, you must promise never to wear a hat of a larger size.'"

Charles P. Seymour, bandmaster, who was in the Spanish-American War regiment in which Judge Holtcamp served, as a captain, furnished music at the reception.

Nazarene Bishops Re-Elected.

By the Associated Press. WICHITA, Kan., June 21.—The international quadrennial General Assembly of the Church of the Nazarenes yesterday unanimously re-elected the three members of its General Board of Bishops for another four years. The Bishops, who act jointly on matters pertaining to the church throughout the world, are Dr. J. B. Chapman, Wollaston, Mass.; Dr. J. W. Goodwin, Pasadena, Cal.; and Dr. R. T. Williams, Bethany, Ok.

OZARK CHURCH CONFERENCE BEGINS AT HOLLISTER, MO.

City Ministers Taking Part in Third Annual Interdenominational School.

The third annual Ozark Conference, an interdenominational three-day school to bring to rural districts the counsel and assistance of city churches and ministers, opened today at Hollister, Mo. The conference is designed to benefit the Ozark region situated in Southern Missouri, Northern Arkansas and Northeastern Oklahoma.

Included in the meeting today is a young people's conference which will continue until June 30 and which will be attended by a delegation from the Central Presbyterian Church. A second delegation will be sent by the church to the interdenominational conference which will be held on the campus of Westminster College at Fulton, beginning tomorrow and continuing until June 28.

HURLEY IN CITY, ASSAILS PUBLIC WORKS PROPOSAL

Secretary of War Says $2-200,000,000 Plan Might Force U. S. Off the Gold Standard.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, addressing a waterways luncheon today at Hotel Statler, argued against the pending Garner bill for a $2,200,000,000 Federal bond issue for public works, including waterway development. He said it would unbalance the budget, would do but little to relieve unemployment, and might cause the United States to abandon the gold standard.

Secretary Hurley arrived in an army airplane at Curtis-Steinberg airport, East St. Louis, at 11 a. m., and was brought to the luncheon as the guest of the Chamber of Commerce. Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways Corporation, was also at the luncheon. Both left, after the luncheon, to join the cruise of Inland Waterways Corporation steamers up the Missouri River to Kansas City, starting this afternoon.

The Secretary of War was greeted by President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, Secretary Muldoon of the Mayor's office, Richard S. Hawes of the Clearing House, and former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, waterways leader. The name of James E. Smith, veteran of the waterways movement, who is now in Europe, was applauded by the 300 per sons attending the luncheon.

"I am here to redeem a campaign pledge made four years ago by a candidate for President," Secretary Hurley said. "Much has been said about making the Missouri River navigable. That job has been completed, as far as Kansas City, and we are starting this afternoon on a steamboat which we hope to have whistling in Kansas City in less than a week.

Praise for Hoover.
"In Kansas City in 1925, Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, outlined a national waterways system. Up to that time, waterway development had been conducted on a pork-barrel basis. Strong Congressmen or Senators got the Government to spend money in their own district or state. Under the guiding hand of Herbert Hoover, the waterways became a national rather than a local project. He called for development of the Mississippi from Minneapolis to the Gulf, and a connection with the Great Lakes, in place of local work. He advised beginning at the Mississippi and building upward, developing as we went. Under that plan the Missouri has been completed to Kansas City. He has pledged its development to Sioux City and above. He has pledged a nine-foot channel to Minneapolis, and we now have the six-foot channel."

"An Even Break" for the Valley.
Secretary Hurley praised the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, which has had the river work in charge, citing its other achievements, including the Panama Canal, and continued:

"It was Mr. Hoover's idea to bring the farms of the hinterland into close touch with the seaboard, to offset commercial disadvantages resulting from the Panama Canal, and to give the 23 states of the Mississippi Basin an even break with the rest of this republic."

Hurley spoke of other nations which have been forced to abandon the gold standard, and said this had resulted in most cases from "extraneous and unusual expenditures." He then spoke of the pending measure.

Assails Public Works Bill.
"There is a bill pending," he said, "to drag $2,200,000,000 out of a depleted Treasury. It has required every ounce of strength and intellect Congress has to balance the budget, and they tell us every day they don't know if it is balanced. Shall we continue development on the basis of sound economy and engineering, or shall we take billions out of the Treasury to pour into a situation where there is no possibility of immediate returns, and again unbalance the budget?"

"This measure would create more unemployment than it could overcome. A few days ago, we were asked if we could spend $123,000,000 next year on river improvement. The Corps of Engineers estimated that with this money it could add 34,000 men to the 30,000 now employed. There are about 8,000,000 men unemployed in the country. To employ 34,000 of them, we would unbalance the budget, throw the country into confusion, and employ only a drop in the bucket." He added that river work was machine work, not hand work.

Gen. Ashburn, speaking at the luncheon, said the Government barge line, operated by the Inland Waterways Corporation, had carried 1,500,000 tons of freight in the last year. This, he said, was one-fifth of one per cent of all the freight carried by all means of transportation, including railroads, waterways, airways, trucks and pipe lines.

The start of the expedition up the Missouri is from Lewis Bridge, near the mouth of the Missouri. The Inland Waterways Corporation steamers Mark Twain and Gen. Ashburn will be used. Three steamers of the United States Army Engineers, engaged in channel improvement, will accompany them.

The boats will stop at St. Charles tonight, at Hermann tomorrow night, and are to reach Jefferson City Thursday, Booneville Friday, and to arrive next Monday at Kansas City, where an ultra-modern rail-and-water terminal, built by the city, awaits the inauguration of barge traffic.

"HANK" WEEKE SUPPORTING HIS NEPHEW'S OPPONENT

A. F. Weeke, meat market proprietor, of 2221 Benton street, is running for Republican City Committeeman of the Eighteenth Ward without the support of his uncle, "Hank" Weeke, veteran G. O. P. leader in the ward. Hank is supporting the incumbent, Fred H. Knollmann, Deputy Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction, for re-election to the committee.

He is willing to wager with any one that his nephew will be defeated. The younger Weeke is 35 years old.

"I like the boy," said Hank, "but he never came near me about running. He's got a nice business; let him stay in it. Politics ruins many a young man. If I'd gone into business like him and his father, I'd have had money."

HOOVER CUTS TARIFF 50 PCT. ON COMPOUNDS OF ALUMINUM

Senate Orders Inquiry Into Production Costs of Leather Gloves, Plate Glass, Other Articles.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Approving a report of the Tariff Commission, President Hoover yesterday ordered, effective July 13, a reduction of 50 per cent in the present duty of 5 cents a pound on aluminum, ferro-silicon, aluminum and ferro-aluminum silicon containing 20 per cent but not more than 52 per cent aluminum. No change in the rate duty was specified on other grades or on silicon aluminum or aluminum silicon.

The Senate ordered the Tariff Commission yesterday to investigate and report the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad of leather gloves, plate glass, linseed or flax-seed oil and mixtures, cast iron pipes and fittings, cocoa, chocolate and cocoa butter. Senator Costigan (Dem.), Colorado, said he understood imports of these products had been decreasing and that accordingly the duties "ought to be readjusted." Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, said there could be "no harm" in having the commission investigate.

JAPANESE STATES POSSIBLE GROUNDS FOR WAR WITH U. S.

Americans have given the most thought and discussion, I unhesitatingly would say the efforts of the nation to build a durable structure of international peace."

His address was entirely friendly in tone. He said: "The United States is interested in a peace not confined to the so-called intellectual classes . . . but one that extends from the highest officials to the lowest laborer."

"It (peace) is universal and fundamental, and while the memory of the dark days of 1914-1918 may gradually become less acute, the experiences those years have instilled into the people of the United States will serve to solidify both in spirit and fact the structure of international peace, which neither time nor circumstance can ever change."

"It would be foolish to assert that no important problems beset us. We must recognize that they exist and do our best to solve them. Many complicated problems with which we are faced today urgently need settlement within the next few months."

"Few if any problems today concern the people of the United States as a whole more deeply than the problems of the Orient. This is not limited to Washington, New York or California. It is universal."

Grew did not refer in his speech to Ishii's statement on Asia, but he departed briefly from his prepared text to concur with Ishii's view that the concern of the United States in the Orient was the maintenance of peace in respect of treaties.

Do you inhale?

The tobacco trade is at "sixes and sevens" on this embarrassing question

Do you inhale? This simple question caught the cigarette trade by surprise! "Why bring that up?" they asked. "Why don't you let well-enough alone?"

But "well-enough" is not enough for Lucky Strike! The subject of inhaling is vitally important . . . for every smoker inhales knowingly or unknowingly. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike dares to raise this vital question . . . because Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities concealed in every tobacco leaf! Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes!

A black and white photograph of a box of Rice Krispies cereal. The box is rectangular and stands upright. The top of the box features the brand name "RICE KRISPIES" in large, bold, sans-serif capital letters. Below the name, there is a smaller line of text that reads "READY TO EAT". The box is decorated with a pattern of small, dark, irregular shapes, possibly representing the cereal flakes. The background is a plain, light-colored surface.

shine. He sleeps like a top, and how he eats! Watch him dips lustily into his Rice Krispies and milk and does his dips towards building a strong and rugged constitution.

Kellogg's Rice Krispies are cereals that fascinate children—and one of the best they eat! Crisp, nourishing rice cereals that actually crackle in your mouth.

Serve for breakfast, for lunch—for the evening meal.
Kellogg's Rice Krispies are so easy to digest, they invite restless sleep. How much better for children than so many hot, dry dishes.

Always oven-fresh in the hand-green package with a sealed inside waxlike bag-all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

If you ask My Opinion

Martha Carr

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am the 16-year-old daughter whom Mrs. W. wrote you about. She said that a change had come over her. Well, maybe it has, and Mrs.
Carr, if you were in my place you would understand. About three years ago, my mother did not consider me as a person, but as a confession in her. And so I seldom confided in her.

I love my mother—and don't think it doesn't hurt to live this way. If she were only the pal and companion she should be, it would be a lovely life here! Well, and why shouldn't I love this boy? He is the only one I can confide in, and he is more like a brother than my own brother.

Things are going from bad to worse and so many sneers that I seldom open my lips. My mother has always been partial to my brothers. I left once and stayed for months. She begged me to come back. If I leave again, it will be never.

The friends of hers whom I ask to excuse me are gossip and backbiters and when they leave mother tells about them, so I leave.

Mrs. Carr, I've tried to be clear, but I don't know whether I've made a good job or not. I hate to ask about my mother, but my heart is filled with resentment. I hope she sees this, and can understand. Mother and father have been separated for years.

M. W.

It is a grievous thing to know of resentment and bitterness in the heart of one so young—such a thing that in the years when one should have the vision of happiness and wholesome development, it is warped and spoiled.
But, especially, it is tragic to nurse resentment against one's mother.

"AL" SMITH
DECLARES
AND REPEAL

He Points Out He Led Fight Against Prohibition
"When Army Was Small and Stragglers Were Numerous."

GLAD OTHERS HAVE COME TO HIS VIEW

Denies He Is Conducting
"Stop-Roosevelt" Movement—Says Instead He Is Combating a "Stop Smith" One.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 22.—A call for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act was made today by Al Smith, former governor of New York, who arrived here to contest the nomination of his former political friend, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

His first statement on the convention scene, however, was restricted entirely to prohibition. It gave no hint of the intensity of the party dispute that was stirring readers, made no mention of Roosevelt or of the coming contest over permanent chairmanship of the convention which will bring the first test of the strength of the Roosevelt forces.

Smith called the eighteenth amendment "unworkable" and demanded its repeal. He said the Volstead act should be changed to permit the sale of beverages of a reasonable alcoholic content, thus diverting "the profits of the bootlegger into legitimate taxes."

"When the Army Was Small," surrounded by newspapermen at the Congress Hotel, Smith issued this statement:

"The eighteenth amendment could never have been put into Constitution. It is unworkable. I attacked it from the time it was first proposed and prophesied its failure and stated that it would be proved to be the greatest curse ever put over on an unsuspecting people.

"I fought it when it was unpopular to take that side of the issue in many parts of my own State and many other states of the Union and when every weapon of narrow-minded intolerance was turned against me.

"I carried the banner when the army was small, the stragglers numerous and the opposition bitter. I was then and I am now for the unconditional repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"The Volstead act should at once be amended by a scientifically correct definition that will permit the sale of beverages of reasonable alcoholic content. The people of the United States are entitled to this relief which would divert the profits of the bootlegger into legitimate taxes."

A Chat With Smith.

Chatting informally then, Smith said the half of one per cent prohibition was put in the act by the Anti-Saloon League.

He added that if a proposal for a repeal were not submitted to the Resolutions Committee he would submit one himself.

"Who is going to be the nominee?" Smith was asked. "The convention will decide," he said.

"Who is your preference?" "Alfred E. Smith,"

Smith reiterated that talk about Roosevelt being nominated on the first ballot was "a little ballyhoo."

"I thought you described that in New York as a bedtime story," one suggested.

"Well, that is a kind of modification," Smith replied.

He refused to predict how many votes the New York delegation would give him.

Asked about his part in the "stop Roosevelt" movement, Smith said: "There is nothing to that. I'm combating a stop Smith movement that commenced one year and a half ago."

"For Myself Alone."

"Why do you oppose Roosevelt?" he was asked. "I want myself nominated."

"Who is your second choice?" "I haven't got any. I am for myself alone."

Smith said he did not believe the convention would abrogate the two-thirds nominating rule. Asked he would support the nominee of the convention, he said it was not necessary to "talk about that" at this time.

Will you urge an economic
